PROTEST AGAINST PANAMA CANAL BILL

BRITISH NOTE WILL ARRIVE ON THURSDAY

London Times Believes Politics
Will Figure in Fate of Measure

Washington, D. C., July 17.—The formal British protest against the Panama canal bill will reach Washington on Thursday. The incoming mail steamer bearing the communication will be met in New York by A. Mitchell-Innes, the British charge d'affaires, who will bring the protest directly to Washington for submission to Secretary Knox. As the state department has already decided that in its present conditions the subject is not one admitting of diplomatic treatment, the protest will be merely acknowledged and transmitted immediately to the Senate and House, probably accompanied by a special message from President Taft.

Some officials believe that if congress will content itself with action upon so much of the canal bill as provides for the creation of an operating force for the waterway, the subject may be divested of the urgency which now attaches to it and the broad international question, the right of the United States to discriminate in favor of its own shipping, may be left for subsequent adjustment.

President Taft was told today by Representative Knowland, of California, that Canadian railroads acting in sympathy with American roads, were behind Great Britain's protest against free tolls through the Panama canal for United States ships.

"Not the slightest objection was made by Great Britain," said Mr. Knowland, "until a committee of Canadian railroad men took the question up with the British government. There is little doubt that American transcontinental roads prompted the move."

Mr. Knowland also talked with Secretary Knox.

Both the president and the secretary of state are standing for the right of the United States to put certain American vessels through the canal toll free.

While many of the president's advisers contend the question of tolls is really one of interstate commerce, they are hoping the dispute may be settled without being submitted to The Hague tribunal.

London Views.

London, July 17.—An interesting article appears in the Times dealing with the resumption of the discussion on the Panama canal bill. The paper says that the fate of the bill will be largely and perhaps, mainly, determined by domestic considerations. One of these considerations is the particularly active year of the presidential elections.

Continuing, the Times states that "it is thought proposals are to be adopted which we do not regard as reasonable or just. We must therefore resort to international arbitration."

INVESTIGATING NEW YORK MURDER

Further Arrests Expected To-day in Connection With Shooting of Gambler

New York, July 17.—Further arrests in the murder case of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, who was shot and killed early yesterday, a few hours before he was to make additional charges that the police and gamblers are in collusion, are expected to-day to disclose whether the police or gamblers directly instigated the plot to kill Rosenthal. A score or more plain clothesmen are searching the city early today for several men whom District Attorney Whitman believes were connected with the shooting.

After several hours of grilling early today Louis Libby and William Shapiro, who owned the motor car used in the killing, told all they knew of the murder.

District Attorney Whitman said he would proceed with the grand jury investigation into the charges made by Rosenthal. It was reported that Rosenthal gave the public prosecutor the names of three men who had been with him at the gambling table before they could do business. One of these is said to be a former city official, a police official and a third in a clerical position in the police department. A fourth arrest was made today, when Louis Webber was brought to police headquarters. Webber, according to the police, ran a gambling house in opposition to Rosenthal about three years ago, and had incurred the dead gambler's enmity. While the feud between the two men was on, Webber's home was dynamited, the police say, and his jaw broken by a man known as "Tough Tony."

TURKISH CABINET HAS RESIGNED

Trouble Among the Troops—
Movement to Place New Sultan on Throne.

Constantinople, July 17.—The Turkish cabinet resigned to-day in consequence of revolt in the army against the methods of the committee of union and progress.

The resignation of the cabinet is a sequel to that of Mahmud Sefika Pasha, the minister of war, on July 16. There have been numerous reports of disaffection among the Turkish troops, especially those fighting against the Albanian rebels. Hundreds of desertions of officers and men to the rebel side are known to have occurred, and it has been reported that the majority of the Turkish soldiers were inclined to make common cause with the Albanian insurgents.

A dispatch from Athens, under yesterday's date, said it was semi-officially declared there that a serious movement was on among the Liberal party in Turkey to place Prince Mejid Effendi, son of ex-Sultan Mourad, on the Turkish throne, owing to discontent with the sultan, Mahamed Reihad Khan.

ATROCITIES IN PERU.

London, July 17.—Recent disclosures of atrocities in the rubber industry in Peru are still commanding intense interest. The Times, in commenting on the terrible state of affairs, says that Great Britain and the United States should both adopt resolutions and assume an attitude calculated to stimulate the government of Peru in the fulfilling of its obligations to the natives. The Times points out that the Brazilian government has already taken the advice offered by the Vatican and are protecting the Indians in their country.

WILL PROBATED.

Toronto, July 17.—The will of the late Jas. Osborne, superintendent for the C. P. R. in Toronto and later superintendent at Vancouver, was probated yesterday. He left $37,000. Edith Osborne, the widow; two sons, Ross and Hilliard, of Toronto and Vancouver, and four daughters, Alma, Roberta, Rhoda, and Edith, of Montreal, will share equally, receiving $5,125 each.

SIR P. GIROUARD HAS RESIGNED

Gives Up Post in East Africa to Engage in Private Business

London, July 17.—The Times to-day announces that Lieut.-Col. Sir Percy Girouard, who suddenly resigned as governor of British East Africa, has accepted an important position with Messrs. Armstrong, thus adding another name to the growing list of able public men who have exchanged service with the crown for private business.

TWENTY DROWNED.

Cologne, July 17.—Twenty persons have been drowned in the last two days in the Rhine below here while bathing. Their deaths are attributed to the extreme heat.

MANY DEMANDS FOR INCREASED WAGES

Opposed by Representative of Railway Before Board of Arbitration

New York, July 17.—Many railroads would face bankruptcy if all the pending demands of various classes of employees for increased wages should be granted, was asserted to-day by B. A. Worthington, when he resumed argument in behalf of 50 eastern roads before the arbitration committee which is deciding the wage dispute between the railroads and the locomotive engineers.

He said that while only the demands of the engineers are directly before the committee, the firemen have filed an application for an increase, which, if granted, would cost the railroads $20,000,000 a year. He added that shipmen and other classes of employees also expect advances similar to whatever the engineers obtain.

NEW ARCHBISHOP OF TORONTO

MOST REV. N. McNEIL
RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Has Been Archbishop of Vancouver Since January, 1910

Rome, July 17.—The Most Rev. Neil McNeil, archbishop of Vancouver, has been appointed archbishop of Toronto, Canada.

Archbishop McNeil was born in Hillsborough on November 21, 1851, so that he is now in his sixty-first year. His education was begun at St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, whence he passed through College of the Propaganda, Rome, and the University of Paris, and took his degree of D. D. in 1879. He became a member of the teaching staff and vice-rector of St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, in 1889, an office which he retained until 1894, in which year he became rector. He relinquished the position in 1891. He was editor of the Aurora and the Antigonish Casket while at St. Francis Xavier College. In 1891 he went to West Arichat, and later on to Deschamps. In 1896 he became bishop of Nipopolis and vicar apostolic of St. George's, Newfoundland. Six years later, January, 1910, he was appointed archbishop of Vancouver. He is a charter governor of St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish. Archbishop McNeil has been described as a profound scholar. As a mathematician and astronomer and a French scholar, he is said to be without an equal in Canada.

KILLS WIFE—SHOTS HIMSELF.

Selma, Cal., July 17.—David Jackson, a farmhand living near here, killed his young wife yesterday by cutting her throat, then shot himself in the breast, and lay down to die beside her body. The wound was not fatal and when neighbors reached the scene, an hour and a half later, Jackson placed the pistol to his ear and fired another shot which will cause his death.

COST OF LIVING IS INCREASING

General Advance in Prices
Shown by Labor Department's Report

Ottawa, July 17.—Another increase in the cost of living is shown in the statement issued by the labor department for the month of June. The department's index number now stands at 136.9 as compared with 126.1 a year ago, indicating a general increase of several per cent. in the course of twelve months. The prices of food products are now nearly 27 per cent. higher than they were ten years ago. While most foods are higher than a year ago, there have been slight decreases in the cost of dairy products, sugar, coal and coke.

KING ALFONSO RESCUES GENERAL

Leaps From Carriage, Stops
Runaway Horse and Saves
Officer's Life

Pamplona, Spain, July 17.—King Alfonso prevented yesterday what might have been a fatal accident. As he was leaving the cathedral afternoon a ceremony, a general's horse bolted, throwing the rider and dragging him along the ground. While spectators hesitated the King sprang from his carriage, caught the horse and extricated the fallen general. He was roundly cheered.

NEW YORK TRAGEDY.

New York, July 17.—Samuel Swartz, father of Nathan Swartz, the young man wanted by the police in connection with the murder of Julia Connor in the Bronx last week, made a statement before District Attorney Nott that his son had confessed to him he killed the child. He said he had told his son to go out and commit suicide. The father said he believed the boy had done as he was told.

CRITICIZES ACTION OF GOVERNMENT

Lord Curzon Not Satisfied With Policy Regarding Trans-
Persian Railway

London, July 17.—In the House of Lords, Lord Curzon elicited from Lord Morley that Britain's attitude as far as the trans-Persian railway was concerned was non-committal. Consequently the British government would be free to oppose the line or else secure modifications enough in the ultimate plans to render the project as little detrimental to India as possible.

Lord Curzon replied that the statement of Lord Morley was not sufficient to convince him in this regard. The Daily Chronicle denounces the scheme and declares that India's position as far as strategy is concerned is a costly pawn for England, and ought not to be jeopardized in any way, because, although Russia is at present a very good neighbor of India, the most likely way to end that neighborly friendship would be to make too tempting prospects for Russia's forward movement.

Not only is the Chronicle in opposition to the policy set out by Lord Morley, but the Daily News is also emphatic in its opposition to the statement made by the member of the upper house.

RUN OVER BY ENGINE.

Tacoma, Wash., July 17.—In getting out of the way of a yard engine, approaching him on one track, Michael Moore, 28 years old, a boiler-maker, employed by the Northwestern, stepped directly in the path of a road locomotive on another track in the company's yards, receiving injuries from which he died half an hour later. He was unmarried.

TREATY WITH WEST INDIES.

Barbados, July 17.—The treaty of mutual benefits, which was signed at Ottawa last April by representatives of the British West Indies and members of the Canadian government, has been ratified by all the islands with the exception of Trinidad. It is expected that Trinidad will ratify the treaty within a fortnight.

ANOTHER RIFT IN BRITISH CABINET

NOT IN ACCORD
ON NAVAL POLICY

Adoption of Churchill's Plans
May Drive Lloyd-George
From Ministry

London, July 17.—In an article in the Daily Mail, H. W. Massingham, late editor of the Chronicle and now of the Nation, creates considerable excitement and sensation by his reference to the political aspect in England at the present time. Mr. Massingham asks: "Are we to command the sea or lose Lloyd George? If Premier Asquith continues in his endeavor to enchain the souls and mind of his party to Winston Churchill's naval policy, he will surely lose his chancellor, besides nine-tenths of the Liberal fighters."

The Standard, in reference to Mr. Massingham's article, says: "Perhaps the result of the recent Hanley bye-election encouraged Mr. Massingham to think that Lloyd George was cornered in the cabinet. It is an interesting domestic quarrel and the result is most uncertain. In the meanwhile, however, the Unionists must look to their weapons in readiness for a surprise election which Premier Asquith may resort to as the only means of escaping from an uncomfortable situation."

Defends Chancellor.

The debate on the second reading of the finance bill in the Commons resulted in severe criticism of the treasury department. Asquith Chamberlain contended that the treasury had become one of the biggest spending departments of the government, and that every increase in revenue was being absorbed as fast as it was obtained. He also asserted that all surpluses were mortgaged by the treasury officials in advance.

The home secretary, Mr. McKenna, strongly defended the chancellor's policy, especially in the matter of the disposal of all surpluses.

STUDIED SOCIAL CONDITIONS.

Tokio, July 17.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, and Mrs. Eliot, are among the passengers booked to sail for the United States to-day on the Siberia. Dr. Eliot expressed himself as well satisfied with the results of his six months' tour of the Far East, the purpose of which was to investigate social conditions and the progress of education. He arrived in Japan a month ago and during his stay here he has received much public attention.

DROWNED IN GASOLINE.

Minot, N. D., July 17.—Shirley Barton, aged 23, was drowned in a tank of gasoline in this city. Barton had gone into a tank in which there was about six inches of the oil. He was overcome by the fumes, falling face down, and before he could be removed, he was dead.

METHODISTS DISCUSS CHURCH UNION

Reports on Final Voting Submitted at Meeting of Conference Committee

Toronto, July 17.—Church union with the Presbyterian and Congregational denominations and the further step to be taken with respect to the matter, occupied the attention of the special committee of the Methodist General Conference. At services here yesterday representatives were present from all over the Dominion. No definite decision was reached.

Rev. Albert Moore, secretary of the General Conference, presented a report of the church's attitude towards organic union. Dr. Moore also presented a report giving the final voting, showing that the total vote of the official boards, membership and adherents, was 234,443 in favor and 28,975 against, or about six to one in favor of church union. This caused considerable surprise, as the earlier returns indicated a majority of nearly ten to one in favor of union. The Toronto conference voted twelve to one for union. An unusually large number of qualified voters recorded their opinion on the subject, and the result is considered an excellent example of the following of Canadian Methodists at large.

The detailed vote was as follows: Official board—For, 22,475; against, 3,529. Members 18 years old and over—For, 156,941; against, 24,257. Members under 18 years—For, 17,313; against, 615. Adherents—For, 42,151; against, 7,231.

Rev. Dr. Carman, the veteran superintendent of the Methodist church, presided. Hon. J. B. Woods, of St. John's, Newfoundland, and Rev. Newton Powell, of Vancouver, are among the delegates.

STRIKE DISORDERS.

Strikers and Sympathizers Try to Prevent Cotton Operatives Entering Mill.

New Bedford, Mass., July 17.—A disorderly demonstration by a crowd of 1,000 strikers and strike sympathizers occurred to-day before the gates of the Butler mill in connection with the strike and lockout affecting twelve cotton cloth mills of this city and resulting in 15,000 persons being out of work.

For more than an hour strikers and their sympathizers refused to allow operatives to enter the gates. During the disturbances three arrests were made, one of the offenders being a woman who vigorously resisted being taken into custody.

Nearly everyone participating in the demonstration wore the emblem of the I. W. W.

NEW YORK THEATRE MUSICIANS STRIKE

Managers Say They Will Do Without Orchestra's During Coming Season

New York, July 17.—As a result of the strike of theatrical musicians here for higher pay, the ten leading New York theatres state that they will do without orchestras during the coming season. Many of the leading road companies will also dispense with the services of their own musicians.

A statement issued by the association of theatre managers, which announced a month ago that it would not agree to the demands of the musicians, says:

"Travelling musical companies carrying their own musicians have heretofore carried on an average of twelve men at $35 a week, making the cost of the orchestra $420. Now the musical union insists that no organization carry less than 25 musicians, whose salaries shall be $75 each per week, which would make the cost of an orchestra $1,875 a week, instead of $420."

FOUR SALTERIES BURNED.

Fire on Newcastle Island Causes Loss Estimated at $30,000.

Nanaimo, July 17.—Fire, which originated in a heap of old shingles, believed to have been caused by the sun's rays beating through glass, yesterday afternoon destroyed four salteries operated and owned by Japanese and located on Newcastle Island, entailing a total property loss of $30,000. The four salteries destroyed were owned by Makino, Kowaga, Massi and Buhana, the last named the heaviest loser.

Fire also destroyed a hundred tons of salted fish, a large quantity of gear, nets, etc. After consuming the salteries it spread to the surrounding timber, where a force of fifty fire fighters of the Western Fuel Company battled for three hours before getting it under control.

The loss will be serious as there was no insurance on the properties.

MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY.

Chicago, July 17.—Mrs. R. E. Morrow, charged with murdering her husband, Chas. B. Morrow, listened yesterday at her trial to testimony that her husband had been threatened with death by a man who demanded money from him a week before Morrow's body was found, bullet-riddled, on the rear porch of his home on December 28.

Henry J. Clark, an engineer, told of visiting Mr. Morrow on December 21. He said: "A tall man rushed up and shouted, 'I want that money.' Mr. Morrow grabbed a revolver from the table and cried, 'Put that gun down or I will kill you.' 'I grappled with the man. He dropped his weapon and ran out crying, 'I'll see you again.' 'After he was gone Morrow said to me, 'Remember this if anything should happen to me. This is horrible.'"

WORLD NEEDS MEN, SAYS ROSEBERRY

Social Unrest Discussed at the Congress of Universities

London, July 17.—Woodrow Wilson's nomination was made the point of many comments in connection with the matters discussed at the congress of universities of the British Empire.

Lord Rosebery set the ball rolling by speaking of the "need of men," which, he said, was the great need of the age, and a need which the universities alone could supply.

The world, he continued, had need of all the character, all the honesty and all the ability which it contained, developed or undeveloped, to carry it on without danger of anarchy and chaos.

No intelligent observer, Lord Rosebery thought, could watch the course of the world without seeing that great unrest was passing over it. Whether for good or evil—he could not doubt it was for good—it was affecting not merely England and the Empire, but the entire world.

"To produce something new, something perhaps better than we yet have known, which it may take long to perfect or to achieve, but which, at any rate, means a new evolution."

Lord Rosebery, and after him Lord Curzon, expressed the conventional English doctrine by suggesting that universities should be of two kinds. The older, with a distinct literary tinge, to educate those who are to govern the state, and the newer, with a pronounced scientific flavor, to educate those who are to direct the industry of the state.

As the weekly Nation points out, however, the real question which the congress has raised is whether the British Empire and the world have not more need of the newer than the older type of university man.

In the course of the congress, which was attended by representatives from fifty-three British and colonial universities, the need of increased facilities for post-graduate study by colonial and American students at English universities was emphasized by the colonial delegates, who declared that students of other countries received more generous recognition at American universities.

Some speakers candidly admitted that their students would not come to England unless advanced degrees were thrown open to them, because such degrees were of immediate profit to them in their professions. The complaint was made that when students who had taken degrees at, say, Melbourne, Manitoba, or McGill University, desired to come to England for a post-graduate course they were compelled to spend two years in reading for the Bachelor of Arts degree they had already got, instead of being allowed to begin study immediately for a degree corresponding to the Doctor of Philosophy degree of American universities.

Prof. Frank Allen of the University of Manitoba said that they desired the same recognition of Canadian universities by English universities as was given by the United States. Students would not go from Canada to England for the ordinary Bachelor of Arts degree, which they already had, unless some advanced degree were forthcoming. They went to the United States, where they could get the Doctor of Philosophy degree, and many of them stayed there. He wanted to turn that stream toward the mother country.

WOULD NEUTRALIZE PANAMA CANAL

U. S. Representative Introduces Bill—Port of Boston Directors Protest

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Representative Moore, of Pennsylvania, has discovered a way to meet British objections to discrimination in favor of American ships that ply the Panama canal. Mr. Moore has introduced a bill to neutralize the canal and give all the nations opportunity to pay a portion of its cost.

Mr. Moore stated that the cost has been approximately $325,000,000, and the annual maintenance will be about $25,000,000. Mr. Moore also proposes to establish a Panama canal trade commission, consisting of the secretaries of commerce and labor and of agriculture and five members to be appointed by the president to study trade possibilities of the canal, particularly with reference to South and Central American countries.

Another Protest.
Boston, Mass., July 17.—A protest against the provision in the Panama canal bill excluding railroad-owned vessels from the canal was dispatched to Massachusetts senators in Washington yesterday by the directors of the port of Boston and by President Chas. S. Mellen, of the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad. The port directors say that the regular coastwise liners are now owned or controlled by railroads and that it is desirable that the traffic on the Atlantic coast should be extended to the Pacific, especially interests of extension of the New England trade.

ROYAL SOCIETY CELEBRATION.

London, July 17.—The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Royal Society, for which preparations have been going forward for more than a year, was formally opened yesterday with an attendance that includes representatives of universities, science and learned societies in many parts of the world. The exercises of the celebration will continue three days.

CRUSADE WAGED AGAINST RATS

United States Has Large Force at Work at Porto Rico

Washington, D. C., July 17.—War on bubonic plague means war on rats and a scientific crusade of extermination against the rodents is in progress in the cities of the West Indies, where the dread disease has made its appearance. The same measures that have made San Francisco rat-proof and plague-proof have been set in motion.

Seventy men and four officers are now fighting the plague in Porto Rico and twenty-five men and five officers are guarding the exits of the island that the disease may not be carried to the United States. Two officers of the public health service are at Havana inspecting vessels, ordering fumigation and examining passengers and freight.

All persons from the plague zone to the United States must be seven days on the way or be held that long for observation. Every port on the Gulf and the Atlantic is protected against infection.

At San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., July 17.—The work of exterminating rats is being carried on here with unremitting energy under the direction of Dr. John D. Long, of the United States Marine hospital.

A corps of from 40 to 50 men is kept steadily at work in the city and about sixty men are engaged in killing ground squirrels in neighboring counties.

"The city has been practically cleared of rats," said Dr. Long, "and seems to be absolutely safe from the danger of plague as far as this source of infection is concerned. From now on the attack will be centred on the ground squirrels."

Bounty on Rats.

Seattle, Wash., July 17.—Seattle has for years paid a bounty of 10 cents a head on rats, and at present buys 300 rats a month. Each rat is examined for plague germs, and only one infected rat has been found in four years.

Occasionally live rats dyed in various colors have been released, a bounty of $1 each being offered for these. They were set free on the waterfront, and it was learned that they do not wander far from the point of release. Besides checking bubonic plague, which caused a few deaths in Seattle ten years ago, the anti-rat fight has saved millions of dollars to merchants. Although a few rats are still caught, Seattle is shown rat free.

PREDICTS EARLY ELECTION.

Ottawa Paper Says Both Parties Are Preparing for Appeal to Country.

Ottawa, July 17.—The Ottawa Free Press has been convinced that both political parties are lining up for a general election in the fall of 1913. Whether the tip has gone out or not, says The Free Press, each party organization has received instructions to look carefully after the districts so as to be ready for any surprise. In view of Mr. Borden's promise that he would submit his naval policy to the people nobody here can understand how he can adopt a policy of contribution, with a more vigorous naval programme later on without a general election.

The programme as outlined is that the party will come back in the fall with its naval programme, approve and pass the redistribution bill and go to the country in September of next year. Whether the Liberals will allow this programme to be carried out, depends upon developments. They are certainly keen to again ask the arbitration opinion, especially in view of the provincial elections in Quebec and Saskatchewan and will put no obstacle in the way of such an appeal. But they will have considerable to say next session both on the naval question and on the trade issue and warnings have been sent to the Liberal members to prepare for a session lasting until July next with steady fighting all along the line, so that next session promises to be as exciting as was that of 1911.

Yes, the piano that Ye Olde Firm of Heintzman & Co. has been making for the past half century and more, is just about the finest piano this generation will ever see. MAY BE NEW AMBASSADOR.

London, July 17.—Though the post has not yet been vacated, J. Alfred Spender, editor of the Westminster Gazette, is being named as usually well-informed circles as probable choice as successor to Ambassador Bryce, at Washington. Mr. Spender had a brilliant Oxford career. He left the Pall Mall Gazette when Mr. Astor bought it to become editor of the Westminster.

MINERS' PRESIDENT SUBMITS REPORT

Efforts Being Made to Drive I. W. W. From Western Federation

Cripple Creek, Colo., July 17.—The annual address of President Charles H. Moyer was the feature of the second day's session of the Western Federation of Miners held in Victor yesterday. President Moyer reviewed the efforts of the executive committee to exterminate the Industrial Workers of the World faction from the federation, because "that faction opposed the best interests of organization."

In denouncing the I. W. W., President Moyer pointed directly at a faction in the Butte local, and minutely reviewed its activities to overthrow the central body.

He refused to order a strike at Blair, Nev., where the Pittsburg Silver Peak Gold Mining Company decided to "reduce wages on account of lack of ore."

He urged a nation-wide campaign to increase the membership of the federation, now 290,000 strong.

There was a lively debate over the use of the red flag to decorate the hall in which the delegates are meeting. Late yesterday the question came up as to what flag should be used to decorate the hall. In the argument that ensued an Englishman and an American exchanged strong words.

Delegate Corcoran, of Leadville, moved that an "international" flag adorn the walls. A delegate asked Corcoran what he meant by an "international" flag. "The red flag," shouted Corcoran, and he was loudly cheered. But when a poll was taken it was decided by a vote of 22 to 23 that the walls should remain flagless.

HEARING CHARGE AGAINST DARROW

Witnesses Declare Franklin Exonerated Attorney—Mysterious Man is Mentioned

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—More witnesses testified yesterday at the bribery trial of C. S. Darrow that Bert H. Franklin, in conversations with them, had exonerated Mr. Darrow from any complicity in the alleged bribery. Franklin, when on the stand, had denied making such statements.

The mysterious man, whom the defense probably will attempt to show furnished the bribe money, was again brought into the record by George Hood. He testified that Franklin had told him the unknown man was with in a few feet of him when the money was passed to the juror, Lockwood. Franklin, the witness said, told him he believed the mysterious stranger came from San Francisco. Hood was not cross-examined.

Frank E. Dominguez, an attorney, told of several conversations with Franklin. "Bert said he never received a dishonest dollar from Darrow," testified the witness, "and that Darrow knew nothing about the bribery of jurors. He said Darrow would never stand for any corruption or dirty work."

RELIABLE METHODS OF BEAUTY CULTURE

WHEN TOO FAT.—Dissolve 4 ounces paraffin in 1 1/2 pints hot water, and when it cools take a tablespoonful three times a day. This is a harmless, quick and certain way by which to reduce weight without dieting or inconvenience. When the desired weight is attained, the flesh will be firm and the skin free from wrinkles or flabbiness.

FOR A YOUTH-TONED SKIN.—To 1/2 pint witch hazel (or hot water) add 4 ounces spumax, then 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, and you will have a face-lotion very superior to powder. This is excellent to banish oiliness, sallowness and fine lines, and will give to the complexion that youth-tint and velvety smoothness so noticeable in healthy maidenhood. The spumax lotion prevents tan, sunburn, freckles and skin-roughness, and can not be detected when on. Using this harmless lotion does away with that powdered, lifeless look.

FOR GLOSSY, FLUFFY HAIR.—The hair can be kept brilliant and fluffy during the most trying days of summer by occasional shampoos with plain canthrox, a teaspoonful of which dissolved in a cup hot water is ample for a thorough cleansing. Canthrox shampoos invigorate the scalp and hair-roots and to faded, "stringy" hair give a richness of color and silky fluff that always marks the head of perfect hair. The regular use of canthrox will induce a healthy growth, thick and long.

YEAR'S TRADING SHOWS LARGE PROFIT

Reports Submitted at Meeting of Grain Growers' Grain Company

Winnipeg, July 17.—Some idea of the strength of the Grain Growers' Grain Company, the organization of Western Canadian farmers, the shareholders of which held their annual meeting here yesterday under the presidency of T. A. Cramer, can be gathered from the statement of the year's trading which shows a net profit of $121,414 against $59,900 for the previous year and but $790 for five years ago. The paid-up capital is $586,000 and after paying a ten per cent dividend the directors recommended that $60,000 be added to the reserve fund, which amounts to $200,000. The president pointed out that this progress has been, despite the difficulty in handling last year's crop owing to the low grades, tough wheat and traffic congestion.

The company has acquired timber limits in British Columbia estimated to contain 200,000,000 feet in anticipation of the time when they would go into that business on behalf of their shareholders.

Speaking of future development, Mr. Cramer favored the local unit method as practiced by the farmers' elevators of Minnesota and the Dakotas whereby other classes of merchandise were successfully handled by the country elevators. It was necessary, to secure the best results, to maintain the staffs all the year round, and lumber, binder twine and implements could be profitably handled during the summer months. He advocated the securing of a good coal area as coal and lumber were rapidly going under the control of the combines. He favored selling to everyone but giving a discount to their shareholders. Units would be built up by the issue of stock to local subscribers and there was no reason why in time the successful methods of the British co-operative societies should not be duplicated. The company might further secure connection with a mortgage corporation and secure cheap money for farmers. The money power in Canada, he said, was becoming a menace and the difficulties might largely be overcome by co-operative credit societies.

PORTLAND TRAGEDY.

Woman Kills Son and Shoots Herself After Attempting to Murder Husband.

Portland, Ore., July 17.—Mrs. Nettie Walsh, wife of a chauffeur, yesterday fired three shots at her husband, who jumped out of a window of their home, and then killed her young child and shot herself. The husband was not wounded, but was injured in jumping from the window.

Mrs. Walsh was insanely jealous of the attentions alleged to have been paid by her husband to the stenographer of a taxicab company, in whose employ he was. Last week Mrs. Walsh, with a detective, traced her husband and the stenographer to a lonely cabin in the country and there attempted to shoot her husband and the woman, but the officer took away the revolver. Later a reconciliation was effected, and all apparently was serene between them. To-day, however, she suddenly drew a revolver and screaming: "You dirty dog, I am going to kill you," began firing at her husband. The man made a rush for the window and jumped into the street. He was only slightly injured by the fall.

Turning the weapon on her four-year-old son Vincent Walsh, the woman fired three shots at the little one, killing him instantly. She then fired two shots into her own brain, her last act necessitating the reloading of the revolver. The husband ran for assistance and when the police arrived smoke was issuing from the house. The police broke into the apartments and found the clothing of the little boy on fire. Mrs. Walsh was alive when found, and she was rushed to a hospital, where it was said she couldn't live.

POLO MATCHES.

Winnipeg, July 17.—High River's first appearance in the Western Canada polo tournament at St. Charles Country Club in the series of games for the Winterton cup, was made Monday, when they met the North Fork four, and lost by the decisive score of 11 goals to 2.

An unfortunate accident occurred at the beginning of the second chukker to Lonsdale, of the High River team, who had his shoulder blade broken by a fall from his horse.

CRUISER BOMBARDS DANGEROUS BERGS

U. S. Vessel Returns After Patrolling North Atlantic Steamship Lanes

Philadelphia, Pa., July 17.—Weather stained and salt streaked from her eight weeks' summer iceberg patrol of the northern Atlantic steamship lanes, the scout cruiser Birmingham has returned to the Philadelphia navy yard. The Birmingham went out to find icebergs that were a menace to shipping, and icebergs she found by the score. She dealt mercifully with them, merely flashing their whereabouts by wireless to shore stations, but as the patrols drew to a close position, the commander decided to hold a little good-bye celebration before he turned the cruiser's ram homeward.

On July 3 there came a rift in the dense fog through which the Birmingham was slowly steaming and her officers saw that she had just passed between two huge icebergs and was in close vicinity to three more and several great chunks large enough to do serious damage to a ship. The cruiser stood by and orders were given to man five-inch and three-inch guns and bombard the bergs. The very first shot smashed off several tons of a big berg that loomed through the fog and a little more attention caused the berg to keel over many degrees. After that the firing disclosed only small fragments of ice and did no serious damage. The largest berg attacked was about 200 feet long, 175 feet wide and 80 feet high above water.

MEMBERS OF COMMONS FINED.

Were Absent From House for Periods in Excess of Statutory Allowance.

Ottawa, July 17.—The accountant of the House of Commons has just concluded the payment of sessional indemnities to members of parliament. The great majority of them draw very promptly, but some of the wealthier class delay indefinitely. While there are 221 members, the indemnity was paid only to 219 individuals, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Rudolph Forget each representing two seats. While the session lasted 139 days, there were but 75 sitting days. Absence without deduction allowed for fifteen days. Fifty members were fined $10 a day for being absent for various periods in excess of the statutory allowance.

LONDON VIEWS ON ELECTION.

London, July 17.—The Globe, commenting on Premier Scott's victory in Saskatchewan says the seriousness of the Saskatchewan election lies in the fact that Mr. Scott owes his overwhelming victory to the votes of naturalized Americans. "Are these new Canadians heart and soul continentalists?" the Globe asks, adding: "If so it is a bad lookout for the empire. We think it would be a mistake to say Saskatchewan is American in sentiment. We believe it has been influenced by a purely material consideration."

NEW MANAGER.

Greenwood, July 17.—Frederic Keffer has been appointed acting manager for the British Columbia Copper Company. He was one of the early managers of the company, but for several years past he has filled the position of mining engineer. His appointment gives general satisfaction in the district.

HOT WEATHER TOPIC.

As we suspected would be the case, local clergymen refuse to be drawn into a discussion of the burning question raised in Canada by the International Bible Students' Union. The Union, it will be remembered, declared the orthodox hell to be a myth; that it was inconceivable, nay, unbelievable, that the Father of All Good should create beings for the special purpose of fore-ordaining them to endless torture at the hands of horned and spiked devils. The Times refrained, with its usual humility, from expressing an opinion so far beyond the pale of its jurisdiction. It merely introduced the subject on demand. But there are individuals bold enough to venture anywhere within the realm of theological speculation or polemics. One reverend gentleman in Toronto—a place of bold, daring, not to say rash, controversialists—declares he has no doubt whatever of the existence of a material hell with literal fire that is never quenched. On the other hand Canon Henson, of Westminster Abbey, a theologian known all over the world, and undoubtedly one of the foremost divines of the Anglican church, has ventured an opinion, which has been considered worthy of circulation in this western hemisphere. The Canon says: "I think the American religious public is generations behind us, although I don't say that individually American divines aren't the equal of ours on any such question. Such a discussion as that is inconceivable in a representative body here. It was done with a generation ago. You can't get any public interest about such a matter here. People would say you were 'flogging a dead horse.' My predecessor, Dean (afterwards Canon) Farrar, on publishing his book 'Eternal Hope,' raised the controversy, but even then serious opposition was insignificant." So that it would appear the Anglican church has for a generation or more held very advanced ground on this burning question, and we in our ignorance of the science of theology did not know it. Obviously more attention must be given to theology and less to the study of material matters, such as politics.

The Rev. R. J. Campbell, as representing Nonconformity and an extremely advanced position, has no doubts upon the subject whatever. He says: "This seems to me to be a very belated pronouncement. I don't know any clergyman here who believes in eternal punishment. Nor do I think any educated clergyman has done so for many years." The reader will observe that the Times has been extremely careful not to express any views at all upon this "burning" question. We venture only to discuss matters that are within our domain, and are susceptible of proof. The simple fact is that after reading what had been written we feared our theologians might be falling behind the thought of the times, and considered the opportunity favorable for bringing them up to date.

And, if the whole truth must be told, we regretted to give up our hell as the only place in which there was a possibility of certain political signers who flourish in this world like green bay tree receiving the reward we feel to be their due. Now there is nothing to be done but work hard to bring about the only punishment possible in this too material world.

INSULAR IGNORANCE.

The London Globe, with the usual British knowledge of the political situation in this country, says the seriousness of the aspect of Premier Scott's great victory in Saskatchewan lies in the fact that the Premier owes his overwhelming victory to the votes of naturalized Americans. This profound deliverance is in complete accord with the impertinence of another eminent British journalist of repute who told the people of Canada recently that the victory of Toryism last September was the most important event since Waterloo. The inference from these remarks is obvious, of course. It is that nearly half of the people of Canada and nine-tenths of the voters of Saskatchewan are disloyal and ought to be taken in hand by the central authority. Matters have reached a pretty pass indeed when the electors of Canada cannot be permitted to give expression to their opinions upon a purely trade question without incurring the risk of London newspaper censure for entertaining sentiments of disloyalty. If the London Globe had a representative on the ground, instead of depending upon information supplied by Tory correspondents in Toronto, it would perhaps have been informed that the election in Saskatchewan turned largely on the presence of one Hon. "Bob" Rogers, an Imperialist ill-repute. Of course all politically opposed to Mr. Rogers are materialists of the grossest calibre. The farmers of Saskatchewan want to market their products in the most profitable markets. They favor reciprocity with the United States and free trade with Great Britain. Just as the people of Great Britain insist, despite the sophistries of "Unionists" so-called, upon having the freest possible commercial relations with all the world. We would therefore ask the Globe whether the coterie of Canadians in the east who insist upon their markets being protected against the trade of the world, including the trade of Great Britain, or the Canadians who are agitating for wider markets, with an increased preference for British goods, are the more loyal to the principles for which Great Britain has stood in the face of the world for half a century. If the British Empire is to stand, we can tell journals of the class of the London Globe that the reflections it and its contemporaries are continually casting upon Canadian loyalty are far from likely to have a cementing effect. If the downfall of the Empire be the aim of the so-called Unionists of Great Britain, they are going the right way to bring it about.

BRITISH POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

Once more the announcement is made that the Asquith government is divided against itself and a fall is inevitable. Lloyd George, the radical Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Winston Churchill, the Imperialist First Lord, with their utterly divergent views, are told, are about due for a clash which will have the effect of completely wrecking the government. That is the London view, according to a press dispatch, but it is probably merely the wish of an opposition clique. In temperament the Chancellor and the First Lord are not so very far apart, while in their political views they are very near together. The government is undoubtedly unanimous in its determination to bring about momentous internal reforms, of which the most important is a change in the franchise placing all electors upon an equality. That the opposition is seriously alarmed in regard to the possibilities of a measure which will have the effect of reducing every individual voter to a common standard of value there can be no doubt. Discussing the measure in question the Toronto Globe says:

The London Spectator aims at being philosophical in its treatment of politics, and usually succeeds in being at least self-controlled; but when it discusses the Liberal proposal to introduce the "one-man-one-vote" principle into the registration of Parliamentary electors it describes the reform measure as the "most flagrant piece of rickshaws that any body of politicians ever dared to contemplate," and the spirit that prompts it as "cold-blooded effrontery." The gravamen of the Liberals' offence is not so much the proposed reform in itself as their failure to propose at the same time another reform: the redistribution of Parliamentary representation by constituencies. In other words, The Spectator is prepared to accept "one man one vote" as a principle of reform if it is accompanied by the other principle: "one vote one value."

The reply of the Liberals to such criticism is that one of these reforms is as much as they can undertake to put through this session; that they have selected the one most easily effected in a time of Parliamentary congestion, and that it is the most pressing urgent because of the flagrant injustice of a system that enables the proprietor of a motor car to vote in several constituencies in one day, while the pedestrian elector must content himself with voting in one. If a testimonial from a country that has tried other systems is of any use to The Spectator, it will be easy for it to ascertain that public opinion, irrespective of partisanship, is unanimous in Canada in favor of the only democratic plan: putting all voters in respect of the franchise on precisely the same footing. It should be added that Liberals are as eager for a redistribution as their opponents, and that the last one was carried out in its details by non-partisan commissioners under a Gladstone Administration.

The most interesting paragraph of The Spectator's article, however, is the one in which it makes clear the ground of the Unionist objections to the "one man one vote" reform bill. In answer to the Liberal query, why the Unionists should not be willing to aid in effecting one reform when they cannot get two, and be content to deal with redistribution according to their own ideals when they came into power, The Spectator frankly admits it to be quite conceivable that "if the government scheme is carried out the Unionists might never again be able to come into power, or not, at any rate, for a great number of years." This is equivalent to a confession that plural voting has been the mainstay of their party in the past, and that they have nothing to put into its place if it is withdrawn. This admission is not only frank but true; the wonder is that The Spectator has been so lacking in acumen, so maladroit in its pleading, as not to see the help it is giving for pressing on the reform bill. When it becomes law the Conservatives will find themselves shut out from office for a long time. Hope deferred makes the heart sick, but so also does the expectation of disappointment.

Joe Martin, M. P., must be having just a glorious time at home. There are so many opportunities over there for enjoyment of the kind Joseph's heart pants for. Always an election pending, and generally the Stormy Petrel in the thick of the fray. Then there are 60 many parties, or rather so many divisions of the parties, that Joe has no difficulty in selecting a camp in which to pitch his tent. There was an election last week in which Joe undertook the espousal of the cause of the Labor party, which he assumed had been unjustly treated by the Liberal leaders. Just like Joe, isn't it, always taking up the cause of the downtrodden and oppressed. He used to do it in British Columbia, merely making a reasonable stipulation for a fair share of the proceeds. But of course the law society had to butt in and put an end to such philanthropic efforts. Strange thing that wherever he goes Joe does not seem to be appreciated. The electors of Hanley, where Joe fought valiantly for the under dog, rejected his candidature by nearly five thousand of a majority. We would not be surprised to hear one of these days that Joe considers the politics of Great Britain too corrupt for an upright public man and that he had shipped to China with the idea of setting that young republic upon the straight political path.

IMPROVING OCEAN LINERS.

Rear-Admiral Sigsbee in the Century. The Pullman Company has done away, in its coaches, with much senseless embellishment in favor of steel construction and dustless simplicity. Our great ocean liners might well draw a lesson from this improvement, and put the money saved thereby into useful features of construction and safety, as well as into the comfort of crews and emigrants. The environment of passengers aboard these vessels covers less than one week, yet in all the world there can hardly be found, within a small environment, a more offensive contrast between the upper world and the under world than exists in these liners between the upper decks and the lower decks. Strange to say, the uttermost, senseless extreme of luxury is reached when the ocean service caters to Democratic America. I am not a Socialist, nor do I need to be in order to take note of such unwise differentiation. The expenditure should be distributed rationally.

YOU'RE SURE TO APPRECIATE THE EXCELLENT VALUES TO BE HAD IN THE WAIST DEPT.

IT would be an easy matter to devote the whole of this page to a description of the many different lines that are to be seen in this department, and even then we couldn't tell of all the interesting details that please women of good taste. However, here are three lines briefly described, and women who are interested in good clothing and wish to see their money bring in the best possible returns will do well to investigate our claim that there are no better values to be had at anything like these prices.

PLAIN TAILORED OR FANCY STYLES AT 75c

Quite a fine assortment to choose from at this moderate price, and in every case the quality of the garment is better than you usually expect. Plain tailored styles in linenette, and finished with laundered collars, cuffs and patch pockets; hairline and wide stripe prints in a variety of colors on a white ground are made up in the plain tailored style, some having laundered collars and cuffs, others laundered collars and soft cuffs, or are finished with detachable soft collars and soft cuffs are here to choose from.

In fancy Muslins there is quite a choice of styles to choose from, and we venture to say that the cost of the finished garment is scarcely a fair price for the materials alone. Both the high and low necked styles are well represented and they are beautifully finished with laces and insertions, rucks, etc.

DAINTY AND SERVICEABLE STYLES AT 125c

In fancy Muslins we are showing some unusually attractive lines. All have high necks, some have allover embroidered fronts while others are daintily trimmed with laces, tucks and insertions in so many charming styles that a description is out of the question. Some are finished with attractive side frills; and all have three-quarter set-in sleeves. Striped dimity and crossbar Muslin Waists finished with chambray collars and cuffs in sky blue, grey or pink are here. They are a style that closely resemble the sailor. The cuffs are the turn-back style and the fastening is down the side, giving the garment a one-sided effect.

They also endorsed the organizer's suggestion that the branches in British Columbia should form a federation, and registered their approval of their president's idea that a conference be arranged with the other branches in the province with a view to preventing overlapping of the work, and in this way to make their winter programme more effective. There was also a discussion as to the desirability of obtaining permanent quarters for the local branch of the club, quarters which would be entirely at the disposal of the members. The next meeting of the club will be called by the chairman and will probably take place about September.

Welcomed Rev. Dr. Scott.—Dr. Scott, new incumbent of the Metropolitan Methodist church, was welcomed cordially to his new pastorate last evening by the members of his congregation, who turned out in enthusiastic numbers to wish him welcome in his new field of labor. Among those present on the platform were the Sunday school superintendent, H. J. Knott; Mrs. E. O. Western, for the Ladies' Guild; Miss Copeland, the Woman's Missionary Society; E. Wright, for the Epworth League; Miss Bromley Jubb, the Young Ladies' Club; and Mr. Charlton for the Willows Sunday school. Among the clergy of the city who were present were Rev. T. W. Gladstone, president of the Ministerial Association; and Revs. H. H. Balderstone and Thos. Robson, representing the Methodist ministers of Victoria. The new pastor was personally greeted by hundreds of his congregation, and the spirit of informality was emphasized by the singing of a number of solos during the evening by Mrs. Parsons, Mr. Thomas and Miss Sherrett.

Accident on E. & N. Trestle.—As he was walking along the E. & N. trestle the Sonchees resort yesterday afternoon a man named William Sandberry suddenly stumbled and fell to the ground below, a distance of about twenty-five feet. The unfortunate man struck upon his chest and his jaw came into contact with the ground with terrible force so that a compound fracture of the right jaw was caused and a fracture of the left jaw was sustained as well. Patrick Carroll was the first to reach the injured man, and he notified the police immediately. Sandberry was taken to the Royal Jubilee hospital in the police patrol and was attended by Dr. Barty.

Development League's Activities.—The feature of the mail at the office of the Vancouver Island Development League this morning was the number of letters which arrived there from the sister colony of South Africa. In the greater part these communications stated that their writers were dissatisfied with the climatic conditions of the colony and complained of the excessive heat they were experiencing. In two cases they mentioned that they had heard that the climate of Victoria was the finest in the world. In one instance the writer was a woman and the mother of a large family who has successfully conducted a farm in Natal, but who finds the rigors of the climate too much for her strength. Her husband, she asserts, is an accountant, and she proposes taking up land in the vicinity of Victoria so that while she conducted the farming of it, her husband can come into the city and pursue his calling in Victoria. Other letters received were from the Conservative Club in Liverpool, Eng., from Cornwall and London.

HAS WATCHED THEM GROW.

M. A. Wyldie Was "Boss" of the Boys Nearly Twenty Years.

Walking along Government street a few weeks ago M. A. Wyldie, the veteran newspaper circulation man who recently severed a long connection with the Times, passed a prosperous looking couple taking three young "hopefuls" out for a constitutional. "See that man?" he said to a companion. "He used to be one of my paper carriers. He has a youngster almost as old as he was when he first started covering a route on the Times. Occasionally I come across others similarly situated."

When Mr. Wyldie took over the circulation business of the Times about twenty years ago, there were only six or seven boys to look after. Now there are nearly forty and their personnel is continually changing. In the old days Mr. Wyldie was able to run the circulation business himself. Of late years he has had to employ a staff. All this indicates the expansion of the town, and increasing popularity of the paper as well as that of Mr. Wyldie himself.

Twenty years ago the boys, for the most part, used "shanks" pony on their rounds, although one of them had a bona fide horse, which assisted him in breaking a window once a week. He now is a prosperous business man and owns an automobile. At that time the paper usually reached the street about five o'clock. Now the paper leaves the press before four o'clock and most of the boys use bicycles. Their loads are much heavier, as the paper is three times the size of the Times in the days when Mr. Wyldie first became associated with its circulation.

Mr. Wyldie has been connected with the Times in three homes—first in the old building on Yates street, then in the late office on Broad street, and in the present structure. He won and maintained the confidence of his juvenile employees to the fullest degree and genuine regret is felt that ill-health has made it necessary for him to discontinue the work with which he has been identified so long. Their best wishes, as well as those of his colleagues generally, accompany him in his future activities.

NELL GWYNN.

Striking Production at the Victoria Theatre.—Triumph for Miss Verna Felton.

Despite a few little anachronisms in the matter of costume, the Allen players' production of Nell Gwynn, which has been played for the last two evenings to full houses at the Victoria theatre, is a really fine achievement. All the gaiety and glitter of the brilliant court which trod on the heels of the solemn reign of Cromwell is truly set forth in four acts of excellent dramatization, and the scenery is fitting to the occasion, probably the most effective being the court-house scene, which is very simply treated without losing one whit in effectiveness.

Miss Verna Felton's portrayal of the meteoric rise of the poor flower seller of Drury Lane into the favorite of the court is as good as anything that has been seen in Victoria for a long time. The versatility of this clever young actress is amazing and not all the trying work of the leading lady of a big stock company has robbed her of one iota of her spontaneity and her fresh naivete that have always endeared her to Victoria playgoers.

As the lowly gutter snipe, the clean hearted, generous Nell of Drury Lane she was convincing, but it was as the beauty and wonder of the most corrupt court in the annals of English history that she achieved her triumph. Even the soiling process which any habitue of that court must go through had been insufficient to dim the clear flame of Nell's open generosity and the gold that came to her she bestowed lavishly upon the hospitals and homes for old soldiers, besides arousing the king himself to the necessity for the exercising of philanthropy in the same worthy cause.

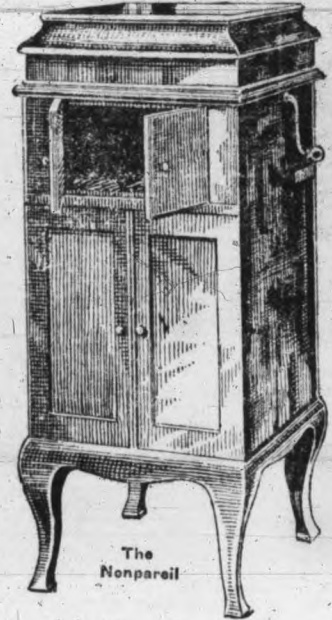

Her struggle with and final triumph over my Lord Jefferies was splendidly acted, though one might take exception perhaps, to the manner in which the actress mimicked the terrible judge, which was more than a little overdone. That was probably the only weak point in a performance which called forth applause time and time again from a discriminating audience.

Among the other characters perhaps the prize of place might be granted to G. D. Zucco for his portrayal of Lord Jeffries. He invested the part of the rankest villain that ever sat in judgment at any bar in the world with a power and zest that was not far short of the mark. Mr. Kennedy made a striking and dignified King Charles, and the rich voice of Chas. Stokes was heard to considerable advantage in the part of Percival, a provincial player.

MUSIC should be the first consideration in purchasing a musical instrument. The music the instrument is capable of producing ought to be the paramount question.

That has always been the primary consideration in the designing of all Columbia Grafonolas. But, as is amply demonstrated by the new "Nonpareil" design shown here, there is no reason why his little extracts from Shakespeare being uttered with a resonance and power that were greatly appreciated. The whole cast indeed was very good and the play is probably the best production that the Allen players have put on since the beginning of their season in this city.

Suggest Police Pensions.—The board of police commissioners will send on a resolution passed yesterday afternoon to the council that consideration be given to the matter of providing for a police pension fund from civic revenue. An eighth of one mill on the dollar is believed by the commissioners to be sufficient for the purpose. Legislative powers were obtained last January by the city rulers for the purposes of providing for pensions to a certain limit. These powers were obtained through the meeting of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada held three years ago, similar powers being obtained from the legislatures in other provinces.

Kantlehner Cracks in Eleventh Inning and Bengals Win a Most Strenuous, Nerve-Racking Game

Victoria	40	49	.449
Tacoma	36	56	.391

The day of miracles is not past. Some one said it was, but he prevailed. Yesterday the Tigers won a game. If one could be transported to their "lair" to-day no doubt one would light in the midst of a scene of unfettered joy and exuberant merry-making. That is, if the fellow fans weren't too flabbergasted to do justice to the occasion. It is feared that the shock may have killed some of them. It happened in one of the most strenuous, nerve-racking games of ball ever perpetrated on an innocent, unsuspecting fan. Who would have thought that the Bengals would finish of making their whirlwind finish of yesterday. They got away in the same awkward, bush league style that has characterized their play during the last few weeks, but, after an inning or so, settled down to brilliant veteran-like work, which finally won the Bees down. It was a tough battle, and Kantlehner, the youngster-southpaw, deserves a lot of credit for his splendid work. But he wasn't strong enough to last more than the normal number of innings. He is husky enough, but he seemed to lack ability to reserve his strength, and was badly used up in the extra periods.

Yes, the game went into overtime. Hunt, another portlander, was on the slab for the visitors, and he furnished a splendid exemplification of the fact that human nature is a deep, unfathomable mystery. One time not long ago, before he went into the first basing business, he faced the Bees, but he was a different person then. Such was the goodness of his heart that he could deny the local boys nothing. They revelled in hits, and had visions of batting averages of unholy proportions. Unfortunately Mike Lynch butted in and stopped the fun when it was just nicely started. With these pleasant memories to whet their appetites the Bees were a ravenously eager bunch of athletes when they entered the fray yesterday. But, as is often the case, the anticipation proved better than the realization. To their utter disgust Hunt was as staid with his hits as a multi-millionaire with his gold, and the talent had to be content with a few scattered singles. Hunt mixed his fast with his slow balls cleverly; had a nice curve and, after the first inning, fine control.

Judging from the opening session the game was going to be a repetition of Monday's slaughter. The home team got two rallies on one single by Wood, which sent Brooks home, and Holderman's error after Clementson and Keller had crowded on to the sacks. In the fifth Hunt forced Lalonde out at second, stole the base himself, and scored on McMullin's one base hit. Again in the seventh the Bengals got one, tying the count. Jensen hit safely, stole and Yohe failed to pick up Lalonde's hint in time to peg either runner. With men on first and third, and none out, Hunt hit to Keller. Keller watched Jensen carefully, but he finally had to throw to first, and Brooks didn't get the ball home quick enough to flag Jensen who, by the way, is very fast on the bases.

In the first of the tenth the excitement was intense enough to give a big heart failure. Kantlehner, filled the bases, giving three passes, and then Mike Lynch-fanned, retiring the side. Talking about "Casey at the bat," his performance wasn't a patch on Mike's. A tremendous uproar greeted his third whiff, and Mike, without a word, took the shortest route to deep centre. In the eleventh Kantlehner worked himself into another hole, and this time he couldn't climb out. He cracked irretrievably and four hits, one of them, McMullin's, being out of the lot, aided by a pass, and Kennedy's miff of a fly in left field, gave the Bengals five runs. The Bees started strong in their half. Wood and Clementson hitting, but a fast double killed their chances.

PORTLAND HIT KRAFT HARD; PHIL COONEY UMPIRES

Spokane, July 16.—Portland landed on Kraft's delivery yesterday afternoon and won. Spokane started a rally in the ninth, but fell short. Bloomfield was relieved by Groat in the sixth, when he showed signs of wildness. Moran, the official umpire, was too sick to work to-day, and Phil Cooney of the local club, officiated, giving splendid satisfaction to both sides.

He Thought It Was a $30 Suit But It Only Cost Him $15 Here

Scene: Our store. Time: Yesterday afternoon. Cast: One of our salesman and a stout, bald-headed, red-faced gentleman bearing all the usual indications of considerable prosperity.

SALESMAN—"Good day, sir; what can I show you?"

STOUT PARTY—"I'm in a fix. Got to catch the next boat south and left all my clothes in Vancouver; nothing but this heavy suit I'm wearing. I want something lighter. Wonder if you can possibly fit me?"

SALESMAN—"Yes, I'm sure we can, sir. Step this way. Now, here is a neat thing, fawn-colored, worsted, beautifully cut in the very newest fashion and hand-tailored all through. It's in the 'Stout' cut, too, and we are selling it—"

STOUT PARTY (hastily)—"The very thing I want. Couldn't have hit me better if you'd tried for a week. (Tries it on.) Yes, and it fits splendidly. Let me see, $20 is the price, is it not?"

SALESMAN—"The regular price is $27.50, but we are making a special clearance of all these new 3-Piece Suits just now at $15.00."

STOUT PARTY—"That's real value. I would have paid $30.00 cheerfully. Better suit than I've paid $25.00 for many a time."

That's typical of the remarks we are hearing just now. True, too. This lot of the season's best designs in 3-Piece Worsteds and Tweeds from the "Proper Clothes" people are crackerjacks—at $27.50, but we want to clear them out in a hurry and we are cutting our profit all to pieces and letting them go at $15.00.

We are also making a big special cut in real silk hosiery. Usually sells at 50c the pair. You can have it now at 3 pairs for $15.00.

got four balls and started on a trot for first. The opposing pitcher, under the impression that the last one was a strike, thought he would sneak one over. Just as he cut loose the ball the man who had been waiting stepped up to the plate and slammed the ball out of the lot. As a result five runs came across the plate on the one wallop, which, in those days, was regarded as a big score.

FIVE RUNS SCORED ON HIT OUT OF THE LOT

As an advocate of the progressive party in the matter of baseball records and to prove to the reactionaries that it is possible to establish a new one, we hereby offer the play wherein a batter hit a home run and drew in several tallies, says the New York World.

Several letters have been received in which the writers declared with scorn that it couldn't be done, but it is gratifying to know that none of them claimed to have seen it back in the prehistoric days of Radbourne, Keefe, Lube and Swat Milligan.

The game in question was played at Tick Ridge. Don't laugh, because that was in a regular league and under the wing of the national commission. At the time of the momentous play the bases were full. The batter had three balls called on him and the succeeding batter, with willow in hand, was standing about ten feet from the plate awaiting his turn. The batter finally

COMPLETE ENTRIES FOR N.P.A.A.O. REGATTA

Scott Brothers Will Row in Both Senior and Junior
Fours for J. B. A. A.

Yesterday the selection of the crews to represent Victoria in the N. P. A. A. O. regatta, which this year is being held by the J. B. A. A., on the Shawnigan Lake course, was completed. It was decided to use the Scott brothers in the junior fours as well as in the senior fours.

It is fully expected that the regatta will be one of the biggest and most successful events, not only from an athletic, but from a social point of view, that has been held on the Island for some time. Elaborate arrangements are being made to accommodate and entertain the large crowd of visitors from Victoria and points on the Mainland, which is expected to be on hand.

The committee in charge of arrangements are busily engaged in securing efficient officials and in settling all details of the programme.

The Bay oarsmen are out every evening in their new shells, and all the crews are working splendidly. Never before has Victoria had such a bright prospect of pulling down the major part of the honors, not simply owing to the fact that they are better acquainted with the course than the Vancouver and Portland oarsmen, but because their representatives have never shown more promising form.

The complete list of Victoria's crews follows:

BILL GOODMAN BACK TO THE N. W. LEAGUE

FORMER VICTORIA THIRD
SACKER GOING TO TIGERS

Tacoma Pitcher May Get
Chance in Big Show —
Melkie Pitches To-night

Here's something for the fans to ponder on. Bill Goodman is coming back to the Northwestern League. He is the first good result of President Ed Watkins' determined effort to strengthen his shattered squad.

Watkins believes that, with Goodman on third, his infield will be about as strong as any in the league and he isn't far out at that. Bill's neat, clean hitting and his consistent batting made a hit all over the circuit last season, when he played for Victoria and, if reports are correct, he is just as good as ever.

Goodman was sold to the Boston Red Sox by Victoria last season, but he didn't stick in the majors, being handed over to St. Paul in the American Association. President Watkins, of the Tacoma club, bought his release from St. Paul for a good, round sum. He will report on Sunday.

Melkie, who is said to be of big league stuff, will pitch for Tacoma to-night and, if he is in anything like his right form and the Tigers play the game they did yesterday, Victoria is in danger of dropping another game.

Melkie's record isn't as good as that of some other twirlers in this league, but that is largely accounted for by the fact that he is with a losing team. Before Tacoma started on its headlong career to the cellar Melkie had won eight and lost two games. A Boston American league scout looked him over in Vancouver and was pleased enough with his work to make Melkie's chance of getting a trial in the big show next season pretty good.

"Slim" Smith will be opposed to Melkie. To-night's game starts at 6:15.

SPORT NOTES

A change was seen in the Tacoma team, when it took the field yesterday. Shortstop Morse was off, and McMullin, who played a poor game at third on the previous day, was at short. Jensen, a man about the build of Phil Cooney, was on third. The change worked well. After making one bum peg in the first inning Jensen played a pretty game, and McMullin's exhibition at short could hardly be bettered. Holderman, at first, also showed a great improvement.

"Pinkie" Grindle is surprising even his friends these days. His backstopping is as good as any in the league, and his "pop" has an inspiring effect on the whole team. Not long ago Pinkie used to be weak on the throw to second, but lately his pegging has been perfect.

Grindle caught for five innings yesterday, and then had to quit owing to a nasty smash on the mask from foul tip from Neighbors' bat. The force of the blow was so great that the mask cut a gash in Pinkie's forehead. Dr.

BILLY KENNEDY

Who will endeavor to get back the sculling championship of the coast at this year's N. P. A. A. O. regatta, to be held at Shawnigan Lake, July 26 and 27.

Hall was called from the stand, and he put several stitches in the wound.

Lou Nordyke was out on the coach line yesterday. He was given a lusty cheer when he appeared.

The statement in the Times yesterday to the effect that Clementson would not play until to-day was incorrect. So anxious was Clem to help pull the Bees up that he insisted on getting into the game almost immediately after his arrival. He also was given a hearty round of cheers on his appearance. He got one hit, and fielded a nice game in centre.

Meek took Grindle's place behind the bat in the fifth, and in the sixth came to bat. He straightened out the first ball pitched to him for a clean single.

Kantlehner wears a constant smile when he is pitching, even when the outlook is blackest.

Yeho is the premier hunt-beater of the Victoria team. Yesterday in the fourth frame he laid down a peach where the Tiger infield wasn't, and beat the throw easily.

ROWING EVENTS AT THE OLYMPIC GAMES

In Military Riding Competition
Sweden Won With Germany
a Close Second

Stockholm, July 17.—The military riding competition for teams at the Olympic games, was concluded this morning. It included a distance ride of about 34 miles, a cross-country ride of about three miles, an individual steeplechase, prize jumping and prize riding. The Swedish team finished first with 139.06 points, Germany second with 135.48 points, and the United States third with 127.33 points. The Olympic regatta, probably the largest international rowing event on record, opened this morning with the race in rigged fours with sliding seats and with a coxswain. The results of the heat were as follows: Denmark beat Gotheberg by a length and a half; Norway beat France by five lengths.

The race for eight-oared outrigger shells with coxswain absorbed most of the attention of the spectators. The heats resulted as follows:

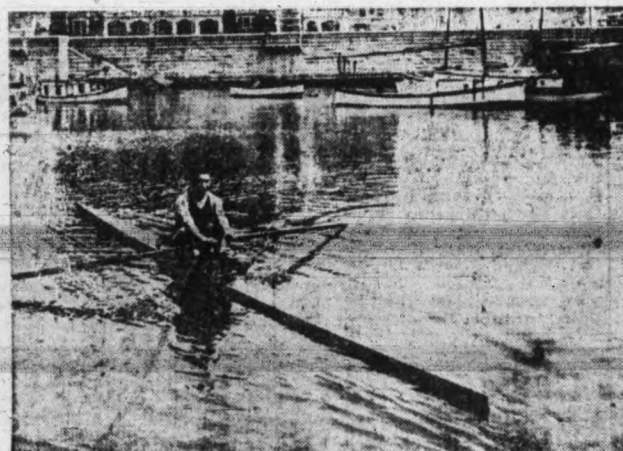

Germany beat France by a length and a half. Time, 6:45. Germany led throughout.

Australia beat Sweden. Time, 6:57. The race practically was a procession.

The sabre test competition, which closed the Olympic fencing contests, resulted late last night in a victory for Hungary, with Austria second.

MEN'S OWN C. C. WINS.

In a cricket match last evening between the Men's Own Club and the James Bay Methodist C. C., the former team won by 39 runs, the scores being, James Bay all out for 27 runs; the Men's Own, 57 runs for 6 wickets. Scarf, of the Men's Own, made the top score with 38 runs. The bowling analysis follows: Attwell, four wickets for 17 runs; Scarf, six wickets for eight runs.

New Mesh Bags That Are Very Different

We have sold Mesh Bags before—many of them—and we have seen scores and scores of Mesh Bags, some of them very handsome. But we have never sold nor seen such beautiful bags as the new display we are showing to our admiring customers just at present.

They are of sterling silver, these new bags, of sterling silver with really hand-painted French enameled frames, and the mesh is reversible. There are others in the display finished in gold and platinum and, really, only an expert could tell them from solid gold.

For every one of the numerous styles of Mesh Bags we have Mesh Purses to match. This is an effective feature that will appeal to fastidious women. The silver bags are priced at from $15 to $100, and the gunmetal at from $6.50 to $40.00.

Then, there are sterling silver bags with either plain or ornamental frames in a wide variety of sizes and styles. Besides the silver bags we are showing an exceptionally good display of real French gunmetal and they are very dainty indeed. For those who want them we have "Dorothy" mesh bags of German silver.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

How much of the happiness in this world is built on the very ugly foundation of other people's envy!

That is a very disturbing and disheartening thought which comes to me whenever I have occasion to realize how largely the value we place on things is determined, not by their intrinsic
beauty or utility,
but rather by their rarity.

Luxuries would not be luxuries if everyone could have them. "Automobiles are so common nowadays," says one of the rich folks who was among the first to own a car, "that there is no fun in having one. Why, every plumber and two-penny clerk has his machine. I think I shall sell mine." You see, a large proportion of his pleasure in owning a car consisted in having something that other people could not have.

Would the woman who declares she loves her diamonds because of their fire and sparkle continue to love them if a gigantic diamond mine were discovered and diamonds became inexpensive and correspondingly common?
Indeed she wouldn't. She would forget all about that fire and sparkle which she declared was so surpassingly beautiful, and would want some other gem which common people could not afford. The fact that it had less intrinsic beauty would probably mean nothing to her.

A plain girl longs with all her heart to be pretty, and thinks she would be perfectly happy if she might be good to look at. Suppose a fairy godmother should appear to her and say,
"I will make you very pretty, and at the same time, since you tell me beauty is such a desirable thing, I'll make every other plain girl in the world pretty, too." Do you think the plain girl would be satisfied? Do you think she'd be delighted at the good fortune which had come to all her sisters through her? Or would she be disappointed at the fairy godmother's catholicity of giving? I'll leave it to your knowledge of human nature to decide which.

I doubt if there is any motive which is behind more of our thoughts and words and acts than this desire to outshine other people, to have something which other people want and cannot have, in short to be the object of other people's envy.

It stands behind a woman's desire to have a richer cake at her party than
Mrs. So-and-So served at her function.
It spurs the great statesman in his struggle for fame—"that last infirmity of noble minds."

But its commonness is no excuse. To my mind it is one of the ugliest and most ignominious passions in the world.

To teach myself to value things for their intrinsic beauty or utility, and for the actual happiness I can get out of them and give with them, rather than for their rarity or the envy I can excite with them—this is one of my dearest ideals. Will you adopt it with me?
Or perhaps you are one of the rare souls who have already attained it.

To Look and Feel Bright in Hot Weather

(From The Woman Beautiful.)

This is the season when she who would have a rose-leaf complexion, lily-white neck and hands, should turn her thoughts to mercolized wax, the firm friend of the summer girl. Nothing so effectively overcomes the soiling effects of sun, wind, dust and dirt.
The wax literally absorbs the scorched, discolored, withered or coarsened cuticle, bringing forth a brand new skin, clear, soft and girlishly beautiful. It also unclogs the pores, removing blackheads and increasing the skin's capacity. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, applied nightly like cold cream, and washed off mornings, will gradually improve the worst complexion.

When depressed by the heat and you want to freshen up for the evening, bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered sassarilla in a half pint witch hazel. You'll find this more refreshing than an hour's rest. It also smooths out fine lines, affecting even the deeper wrinkles.

Any wash tub can be converted into a washing machine through the invention of a lid to be clamped to a tub, carrying on its under side blades driven by a waffer motor on the upper side.

CEMENTING THE BONDS OF EMPIRE

SEEKS TO INCREASE
TRADE WITH INDIA

Percy Bellinghurst on Mission to Develop Minerals Required in Canada

The extension of British influence in Persia and a less exacting control of the feudatory states, and of the buffer territories in Northwestern India are essential to the material resources of these countries, according to Percy Bellinghurst, a former public works department official in India, who left here yesterday on the Inaba Maru for Hongkong. From the British colony he will transfer to a P. & O. steamer for Calcutta.

Mr. Bellinghurst has been twelve months in British Columbia, and believes he has an opportunity to develop a large trade between the Indian Empire and Canada in mineral and other products, sending here in return for British Columbia lumber, products like gypsum and similar deposits which have scarcely been exploited in Baluchistan and the northwestern buffer states, which are rich in them.

He held considerable interests in the past in some of the Chitral group of states, around the fortress which played such a large part in the Northwest Frontier war, and would, he says, have made a large sum of money in mineral claims in process of development there if it had not been for the decision to withdraw, and hence his associates had to leave their plants, where they still remain. The Imperial authorities are reluctant to push commercial ventures in the feudatory states, and accordingly development in many cases has been held back.

He was not prepared just to say where his interests lay, as they were somewhat in the nature of a trade secret, protected by concessions from native princes, but he saw a great future, in which Canada would commercially benefit, and he hoped to strengthen the Imperial connection.

He points out that the opposition to British rule is a serious factor which must be faced, and is not due so much to dislike of British control as such, but to the levelling feeling which education gives, and which has been fostered by successive British governments in the interests of the people themselves. The Indians feel they can occupy positions of responsibility, and object to white competitors from Great Britain filling positions of trust, and responsibility, forgetting the fact that the native cannot escape from religious and sectional prejudices in dealing with his colored fellow countryman.

The removal of the capital to Delhi, he greatly approves, as appealing to the historic sentiment of the people, and removing that aversion on the part of the native princes to control from the mercantile classes of Calcutta, whom they despise. The capital, he hopes, will be planned on a generous scale, and something of which every Indian may be proud.

The close personal association of his Majesty with India flatters the Indians, and the coronation last December at Delhi was a strategic move of the greatest value to British prestige. The princes are delighted to hold ceremonial positions with royalty itself.

There was not likely to be a large influx of Hindus to British Columbia again, although the effect of the few who returned with wealth to their fellows had a stimulating influence on emigration, which the Imperial government at the request of the Canadian authorities had sought to mitigate and restrict, and this action was having its salutary effect.

Reverting to the question of Persia, where he has travelled considerably, Mr. Bellinghurst said he thought the British government must show a stronger hand, and when the inevitable partition came, he hoped they would secure absolute control of Southern Persia, as they already had control of Scistan, its southeastern province.

Mr. Bellinghurst spent some years in Bikaner, one of the Rajputana states, and had many curious stories to tell. On one occasion he took a native prince to Simla to meet the court. However, used as the prince was only to acting in private before him, when an actress appeared at the theatre to whose playing he objected, the prince rose in the audience, told her to go with a wave of his hand, and finding she went with her lines, he rose majestically and stalked out of the theatre in disgust.

REV. DR. HERRIDGE

MOTORED TO ALBERNI

Speaks Glowingly of the Trip
—Addresses Canadian Club To-morrow

Rev. Dr. Herridge, who is to address the Canadian Club to-morrow in Alexandra hall, recently took a motor trip to Alberni with C. G. Duncan, and expresses himself very much delighted with the trip, saying that, although he has travelled over the principal country roads in the Dominion, he has seen nothing up to the present which rivals the glorious scenery on this island. Unlike most of the other beautiful trips of the kind which he has taken, the Alberni road, he says, has an infinite variety in its charms, a meadow, forest, and sea forming a continuous succession of changing beauties, which, with the glimpses of snow-capped peaks and pine-clad hills, makes for the constant attractiveness of this very lovely scenic trip.

The one spot of all others which seems to have made a deep impression on Dr. Herridge is that section of the road crossing the shoulder of Mount Arrowmont toward Alberni, on the one side the snowy summit, on the other the green, cool glades of the forest. Old Alberni itself he considers a delightful old-world sort of place, while the Malahat drive affords some very inspiring views of sea and distant peaks. One

LOOKS VERY LIKE RECORD BREAKING

Temperature Rising Steadily
All the Morning—Was 88
in the Shade at 2 p. m.

The highest July temperature recorded at Victoria during the past thirty-one years was ninety degrees in 1899, and in 1911, 89.5.

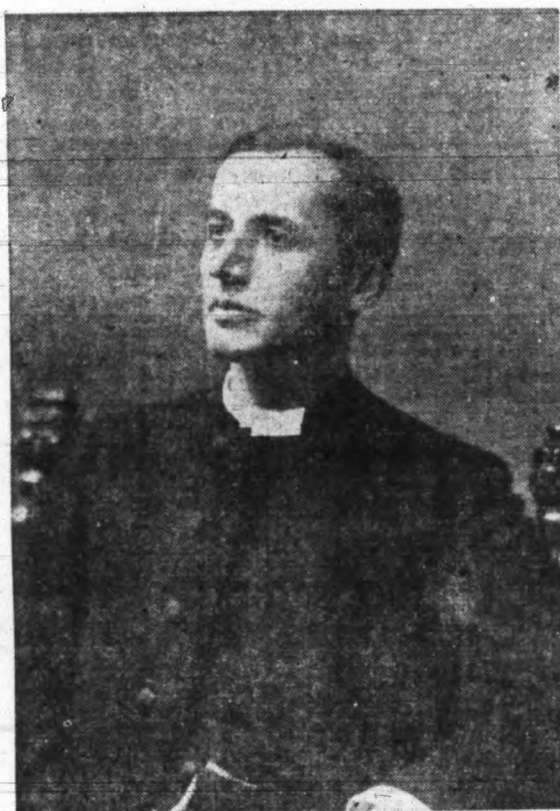

The highest temperature here yesterday was 82, and the day before 81 degrees. Every indication points to almost a record breaking temperature to-day. The minimum of 59 occurred at midnight, when there was a cool southerly breeze blowing, while at 4.30 a. m. it had risen to 69. The following figures show the temperature during the day to the time of going to press:

10 a. m. 82 degrees.
11 a. m. 83 degrees.
12 a. m. 86 degrees.
1 p. m. 87 degrees.
2 p. m. 88 degrees.

So it seems very possible by the steady rise which is going on over ninety will be recorded before the afternoon is done.

Yesterday the heat was intense over the whole of the American Pacific slope. Portland reported 96 degrees in the shade, Walla Walla 98, Roseburg, 100 and Red Bluff, in the Sacramento valley, 108 degrees.

The temperatures of the Victoria meteorological office, as taken at regular intervals by Mr. Napier Denison are from an accurate thermometer placed in the shade in an open space at the back of the post office buildings.

REV. DR. HERRIDGE, WHO WILL ADDRESS THE CANADIAN CLUB AT LUNCHEON AT THE ALEXANDRA CLUB TO-MORROW

thing which evidently made an impression, probably by its unexpectedness in the heart of such an apparently uninhabited wilderness, was the excellence of the hotels, where the travellers found unusual comfort. At Duncan, where the tourists first alighted during their trip, the visitor had the first opportunity of seeing the character of the country hotels, and at Nanaimo and Alberni found his first impressions endorsed by the comfort found in the hotels there.

Viewed from a commercial standpoint a position which Dr. Herridge considered it almost sacrilegious to take in the face of the inspiring impressions made by its beauties—the island should have wonderful attractions for the tourist, and ultimately should rival many of the famous places of the world as a resort. At Shawnigan Lake, Cowichan Harbor, and other points along the coast there is every essential for a type of popular resort which should bring its annual quota of enthusiastic fishermen, bathers, and holiday-makers, although judging by the splendid agricultural quality of the land the greater part of the island would soon be taken up by small farming settlements such as the Salvation Army has instituted at Combs Lake.

To-morrow at one o'clock Dr. Herridge will be the guest of the Canadian Club, when he will deliver an address.

VICTORIAN WINS TYRO MATCH.

Rifle Range, Eburne, July 17.—At the opening of the rifle meet this morning, Gr. Pike, of the 5th Regiment, "Victoria," won the Tyro match, seven shots at 200 yards, making the splendid total of 34 out of a possible 35. At the noon hour the full list had not been made up, but two scores of 30 came into the prize list.

In the Nanaimo match, open to all seven shots at 300 yards, there were two or three possibilities made. Rikeman Macfie, of the 6th D. C. O. R., who is a tyro, being one of them. These men will have to shoot off for first place, which will take place to-morrow when the first range in the lieutenant-governor's match is being fired.

The Westminster match, ten shots at 500 yards, is in progress this afternoon, and will be followed by the Victoria match, seven shots at 600 yards.

The weather conditions are fairly good. The light is bright, but there is a tricky wind which keeps the marksmen guessing.

Mr. Denison explained that it was necessary to keep the delicate instruments away from the brickwork of the buildings as that affected the readings considerably. Should the July temperature record be broken to-day or to-morrow as seems very possible at this present moment it will help to stamp 1912 as a year of great heat, for already this year the May record has been broken by the high temperatures recorded in the early part of that month.

Bishop Roper left for Vancouver this morning on a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton and family, Salmon Arm, are registered at the James Bay hotel.

Dr. Donald returned to the city last evening after a ten days' holiday at Shawnigan Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Selkirk and daughter, of Vancouver, are staying at the James Bay hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gill and child arrived at the James Bay hotel yesterday from Vancouver.

Mr. Arthur Wilson, late acting commissioner of the Yukon, who is now a member of the firm of H. J. Landahl & Co., general brokers and insurance agents, of Vancouver, is in the city. It is the intention of Mr. Wilson's firm to open an office in Victoria.

Mr. Thomas Graham, chief mine inspector, has returned from attending the annual convention of the United States Mine Inspectors' Institute, which was held in Columbus, Ohio. He was accompanied by Inspector Strachan, of Merritt.

C. V. McConnell, in company with Rae Bray, left on the City of Puebla this morning for Southern California to spend their summer vacation. While away they will visit Mr. Bray's relatives.

Last evening at the First Presbyterian manse, the marriage of Sidney James Thomson, of this city, and Miss Grace Marion Percival, also of this city, but formerly of Bedford, England, was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Campbell in the presence of a number of the more intimate friends of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson will make their home in Victoria.

JIMMY PILLING PAYS VICTORIA A VISIT

Well Known Vocalist Sees City
for First Time in Sixteen Years

Jimmy Pilling, the "Jimmy" Pilling of other days, whose delightful tenor voice has charmed many Victoria audiences, arrived here yesterday afternoon after an absence of sixteen years. Upon leaving the boat he had some trouble locating himself. In fact, he had a lingering doubt whether he had taken the right boat. At the Empress, however, his mind was freed from uncertainty. He was convinced he was in Victoria but it was a new Victoria to Jimmy Pilling. He spent a part of yesterday afternoon trying to identify a town, in which sixteen years ago, he knew everybody and every nook and corner.

Mr. Pilling came to this city about twenty years ago from England, and for some time was an orphanic Jew, driving a hack. He made no pretensions to more than ordinary vocal ability and sang only for the entertainment of his friends. One day, however, J. N. Finn, late bandmaster of the Fifth Regiment, heard him sing and at once took him in hand. Then suddenly Pilling discovered that it had a tenor voice of rare sweetness and register and Pilling found himself in great demand. No big concert was complete without him.

About sixteen years ago he received an offer to go on the opera stage, and joined the "Volunteers" company. Subsequently he became associated with other companies. Of late years, however, he has been connected with the business end of the theatrical world and is at present division manager of the Sullivan and Considine Northwest circuit. He came here on a business visit to the local house. His headquarters are at Seattle.

Almost endless are the uses of an inventor's door and window guard, consisting of upright pickets connected by short parallel bars that permit it to be extended to various widths.

INSTALLATION OF HIBERNIAN OFFICERS

The Local Lodge Held Very Enjoyable Session Yesterday Evening

Division No. 1, Victoria, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held an open meeting last evening, which was very well attended. The entertainment committee supplied a very elaborate and lengthy programme, consisting of Irish and Scotch songs, recitations and speeches, which were creditably carried out and enjoyed by the large audience present.

The county president, Bro. L. J. Shanahan, installed the newly-elected officers of the division: President, R. F. McLernan; vice-president, M. F. Carroll; recording secretary, L. G. Tribe; financial secretary, W. H. Harris; treasurer, W. W. W. Baines; chairman of standing committee, J. J. McKenna; sergeant-at-arms, Alex. Grant; sentinel, T. Comerford.

Among those present were his Lordship Bishop McDonald, Rev. J. A. Silver, Rev. M. Courtenaer, Bro. John Hart, provincial president, and J. F. Wilson, vice-president St. Andrew's and Caledonia Society.

The meeting opened with a brief address of welcome by President McLernan, after which the chair was occupied by the chairman of the entertainment committee, who presided for the remainder of the evening in his usual able manner.

mission to perform in combatting the hordes of atheism and materialism of the present day. He also paid a high tribute to the virtue of Irish womanhood.

The following artists contributed to the enjoyment of the evening: Mrs. E. Morning, Mrs. A. Grant, Miss F. K. Healy, of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H.; Miss E. Mulahey, Miss C. McDonald, Miss R. McDonald, P. E. Nyland, A. German, sr., and Mr. Blanchard.

Refreshments were served with lavish hands by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H. and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close to the strains of God Save Ireland.

VICTORIA WOMEN'S CLUB.

Will Lease Floor of Campbell Building for Club Rooms.

The special meeting of the Victoria Women's Club held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of considering the extension of the club, was very well attended, about fifty of the members being present and taking an active part in the discussion.

The president, Mrs. R. S. Day, occupied the chair, and outlined the purpose of the meeting, pointing out the rapid growth of the club since its inception last November, and the inadequacy of the present premises for the accommodation of the members. The ultimate plans favor the leasing of a whole floor in the new building being erected by D. E. Campbell on the corner of Fort and Douglas for the purpose of accommodating the club. These commodious premises, which are 210 feet by 60 feet, will afford an excellent position for the club, and may be appropriated off into rooms to suit the needs of the organization. The report of the committee appointed for the purpose of selecting new premises was submitted by Mrs. Roper, and was enthusiastically endorsed by the members. However, pending the completion of the new building early in January of next year, it appeared necessary that steps should be taken for the immediate extension of the present premises, several suggestions being put forward in this connection, and a committee being appointed to investigate the matter.

In connection with the extension scheme a lady manager, Miss Fitzpatrick Smith, has been appointed to take complete control of the club management, and will enter on her duties on August 1st. During the evening Miss Dorothy Davies submitted her scheme for a big residential club, the details being put before the society in a very business-like and practical manner. This proposition was also endorsed, and in connection with the proposed extension of the Victoria club, caught the spirit of the meeting at once.

The treasurer's report, read by Dr. Cleland, showed the club finances to be in excellent condition, and the matter of the raising of the fees after the beginning of next year being brought up for discussion, considerable opposition was encountered.

CHINA MAY END IN DICTATORSHIP

FINANCIAL CRISIS BEFORE PRESIDENT

Returning Missionary Thinks That the Situation Will Improve Shortly

Lintsingchow, says Rev. Emery W. Ellis, of the missions under the American foreign board, who returned this morning on the Shidzouka Maru from the Orient on furlough, escaped from interference during the recent rebellion in China. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis have been out for eight years in missionary work at this point in a district where a farming community leads a quiet, uneventful life, but even there the noise of the upheaval has not failed to penetrate, although outwardly there is little evidence of any dynamic changes. The people want to be left alone, and free to make a living, and civil disturbances are distasteful to them.

Mr. Ellis said when he journeyed down to the coast, that the vital question was the foreign loan, for without financial backing every white resident anticipates that the republic will go to pieces, and money must be forthcoming to pay off the soldiers, who will not disband without payment after months of service. The soldier is ready to do anything to make a living, and armed with a rifle and ammunition is not in an easy transition.

Mr. Ellis said there was growing up a sentiment that the presidency of Yuan Shih Ki might end in a military dictatorship like they knew under Diaz in Mexico, and perhaps after all it would not be bad for the people, who were hardly ready to take advantage of self-government, provided that it was a dictatorship which would be merciful and free from the abuses of the Manchu administration. Political issues, however, to-day were secondary to financial ones, and, as he had said, money must be forthcoming to save the reputation of the country.

The revolution had accomplished one thing so far as the missionaries were concerned, in that it had given them greater protection, and there was a fear now of a repetition of the terrors of the Boxer rising of 1900. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis proceed to Curtis, Nebraska, for their holiday.

PASSING SHOW

Majestic Theatre.

"A Stern Father" rules his family by what he thinks to be the Bible's precepts, but it is simply the influence of his own narrow mind. He forgets entirely his own youth. Hence when his boy suggests going to a barn dance, he flies into a rage and commands that the boy remains home. The boy, however, becomes rebellious and goes, and for this act of disobedience the father drives him from the house and forces the rest of the family to swear never to mention his name again. A short time later they move to a new neighborhood, and the boy's sister meets and marries the village blacksmith. The old father regrets his harshness to the boy. The latter returns home. This almost causes trouble of another nature for the blacksmith, who knew nothing of the brother, saw his wife in the apparent stranger's arms, and suspicious, was about to leave without asking explanation. There are some tense moments in the telling of this gripping story. "Rivals" is an exceptionally thrilling story of two fisher boys and a girl of the mountains and beach, pictured on beautiful Santa Catalina island. "Paying the Price," is a big dramatic production. "Ibri-Siberia Fair," has plenty of the "atmosphere" suited for warm weather. There are scenes of the horse market, of the hide mart, and of the fish and stone markets where no artificial refrigeration is necessary. Milk in Ibril is sold in solid frozen blocks. These and other films will be shown at the Majestic to-day and to-morrow.

The Empress Theatre.

Laughter is the keynote of the bill at the Empress theatre this week. Tappy Jack Gardner, who is an old-time minstrel man, member of Primrose, Dockwiser, Haverley's and other big burnt cork aggregations, appears at the head of a company of four in the sketch, "A Close Call," and offers twenty minutes of fun.

D'Arcy and Williams are two of the best performers who have offered a singing and piano turn at the Empress. They have a good repertoire, and their voices blend well. The singing of "The Mysterious Rag" is one of the most effective duets heard at the local playhouse.

Valentine Vox, Jr., who offers a ventriloquist turn, keeps the laughter brisk while he is on the stage. With a dummy which seemingly does the talking he offers a merry monologue. His whistling solo, with which he closes the act, is a brilliant effort.

Miss Frankie Drew, the subrette, who sings catchy songs in an inimitable way, is making quite a hit with her act.

The Leonards, a couple of trapeze artists, supply as fine an exhibition of aerial gymnastics and contortion work as has been seen on the local stage. Most of their work is done on a high swinging trapeze. They have achieved considerable success in the music halls of the continent before an agent of the Sullivan and Connolly circuit induced them to cross the Atlantic.

VICTORIA PUPILS FIRST AND SECOND

SUPERINTENDENT IS PLEASED AT RESULTS

Four New Divisions in High School as Result of Entrance Examinations

Much gratification was felt by the superintendent of the city schools, E. B. Paul, M. A., this morning on receipt of the past lists of the school entrance examinations. The Victoria percentage throughout is very high, and the marks obtained by the pupils show that Hazel McConnell, of the South Park school, is at the top of the list with 87 marks, and a percentage of the eleven subjects of almost 78 per cent. Mr. Paul says all the Victoria schools have done well, with the exception of the Victoria West school, which he believes has just had an off year, and the Boys' Central school, where changes of masters during the year, he believes, will account for those scholars being behind.

Victoria also gets the second place on the list, which has been won by Harry Cross, of the George Jay school, who was so close to first place, won by Hazel McConnell that only two marks separated them, his total being 85. Of the several hundred candidates who passed there were but six, who secured over 80 marks, and of these two were scholars of the mainland schools, one other being Jean Reid, of St. Ann's Academy, Victoria, who obtained a total of 80 marks.

"This will mean about four new divisions in the High school," said Mr. Paul this morning, "but as there are some pupils who are leaving I do not think any more teachers than we have at present will be necessary. We will try to do without more room at the High school until the new High school is built."

The results of the Victoria schools, and especially the South Park, George Jay and North Ward schools, have been very satisfactory to the department, and, said Mr. Paul, reflected much credit on the scholars, and on the teaching staff. There were many scholars in the second division who went up for the examination without recommendation, and they would not be kept back, said Mr. Paul, but it did not hurt them to try to see how they got on. They parents, sometimes, wanted them to try, and in one instance the parent's judgment had been justified. This was in the case of Desmond Davis, of the Boys' Central school. He was not recommended for the examination, but had nevertheless passed.

An examination of the results, he said, gives Victoria scholars the first and second places in the province, will show, says the superintendent, that the Victoria candidates have done exceedingly well.

BOXING TOURNEY ON A HUGE SCALE

$100,000 in Purses and All Title Holders Will Compete
—The Champions

New York, July 17.—A national boxing tournament to decide the championships in all classes is to be held in New York next winter on a scale never before attempted. The scheme has the backing of a syndicate of wealthy patrons. According to preliminary announcement, the battles are to be a finish, divided as follows: Bantamweight, $5,000; featherweight, $15,000; lightweight, $25,000; middleweight, $10,000; heavyweight, $50,000.

The title-holders are Coulton, Kilbane, Wolgaat, Gibbons and Johnson. The question of selecting the most suitable opponents for these men will be put into the hands of a jury of sporting editors.

CRICKET JOTTINGS.

The tit-bit of local cricket for next Saturday undoubtedly will be the long looked-for match between the Albions and the Victoria eleven. All things considered it ought to be a rousing game, and taking present form as a criterion there will be a close match. The game will be played on Beacon Hill grounds and the tickets will be pitched at the usual time on Saturday afternoon.

The project to bring the Australian eleven to Victoria seems to have been flounderingly floundered out yet the Australians must come to this city as they are booked to sail on the steamer "Zealandia," which leaves here late in October.

The Cowichan eleven is due at the Jubilee Grounds on Saturday next and the Victorians are turning out a strong team to meet them, even at the expense of weakening the eleven which will play against the Albions at Beacon Hill. It is more than probable that the A team will miss the services of their hard hitting batsman, L. H. Major before Saturday's sun goes down. Wait and see.

A feature of this season's cricket in the old country is the consistently brilliant batting of F. H. Knott, this year's Oxford blue, who is at the very top of his form. Playing against the M. C. C. the other week the young rugger by international half back knocked up a brilliant 80 and has followed it up with other high scores. Last year, it will be remembered, Knott just failed to get his cricket "blue," but his splendid work for the varsity this season left the authorities no choice but to award him this season.

Hayes, the Surrey pro, was the first English cricketer to reach his thousand runs this season and he was closely followed by the hard hitting Hampshire batsman, Mead, who achieved the same honor two days later. As a matter of fact, Macartney, the Australian, performed the feat before either of them, for he touched the coveted number on the afternoon of June 19, several weeks ahead of any player. His cricket performances in the old country this season will be handed down to history, and the easy and daring manner in which he has treated the best of English bowling talent has been the talk of the cricketing world ever since the Australian team landed in England in search of "the rubbers."

There are few men more popular on cricket fields than the man who acted as captain to the English team which performed so wonderfully in Australia last winter, namely the famous Essex amateur, J. W. H. T. Douglas. The use of a good section of the English portfolio has been aroused owing to the inability of the Test selectors to see the claims of this great cricketer in a proper light. Perhaps the finest amateur boxer in the British Isles, he is just as popular in the ring as on the cricket field and his great work of the last few weeks for the county of his adoption ought to have at least secured him the eleventh place on the Test team. But the lot of a selection committee is not an enviable one in any case, and this year when so many men have proved their incontestable right to be considered candidates for

How the Canal Employees are AMUSED

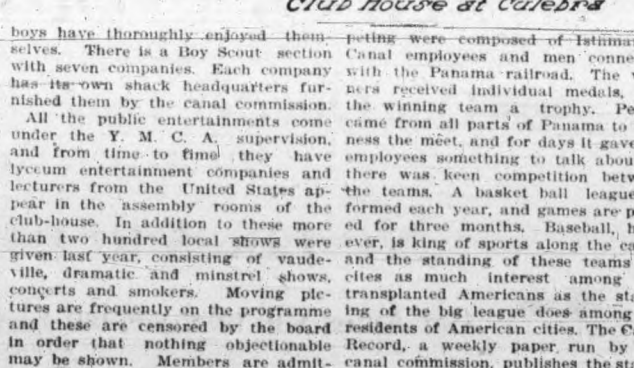

A Canal Zone Church

It is not always easy to persuade capable men to leave good positions at home and to go to an unknown land, and it is still harder to keep them there, for when the feeling of homesickness steals over the mind the prospect of high wages has little charm. This is especially true of Panama, where for a time it was difficult to keep enough efficient workers on the Zone to manage the unskilled labor from the West Indies. Homesickness in the early days of the work caused the loss of more good workers than the ravages of yellow fever, for the men returned to the States after remaining a few months on the Isthmus. The constant bringing in of new men retarded the progress of the work besides being expensive. After a time a country like Panama has a depressing effect on the mind. The continual heat, rain and sameness about everything causes the average man to long for his home in the States. Things go very well during the day while he is at work, but in the evening when the day's work is done there comes that irresistible feeling of loneliness. The canal commissioners were not slow in realizing that something had to be done to combat with this state of affairs, so matrimony was encouraged and sweethearts from the States began to arrive. For a time it seemed that all the employees would become Benedictines. While family life in a measure did succeed in making them better satisfied with life on the Isthmus, even the married men like occasional amusements outside of his home, and again the commission took up the subject of amusements and erected a number of club-houses in the different towns on the Zone. These buildings were placed in charge of the Young Men's Christian Association of the North America. Trained secretaries were sent and a sort of amusement division was formed. This division has charge of the recreation and social life of the employees and their families. The work has had a marked effect upon the employees in many respects, for few men now desert their work on account of homesickness and the amusements furnished educate as well as entertain. In fact, many of the so-boys have thoroughly enjoyed themselves. There is a Boy Scout section with seven companies. Each company has its own shack headquarters furnished them by the canal commission. All the public entertainments come under the Y. M. C. A. supervision, and from time to time they have by-lum entertainment companies and lecturers from the United States appear in the assembly rooms of the club-house. In addition to these more than two hundred local shows were given last year, consisting of vaudeville, dramatic and minstrel shows, concerts and smokers. Moving pictures are frequently on the programme and these are censored by the board in order that nothing objectionable may be shown. Members are admitted free and non-members may attend by paying a small admission. Of course, these entertainments do not pay financially, and last year there was a deficit of over $4,000 in the entertainment section alone. The canal commission, however, considers the money well spent.

lowers. Here again the government has tried to find a remedy—something to amuse the whites—white her husband is at work. They decided that this could be accomplished by organizing Women's Clubs and getting women interested in the playgrounds. The average Canal Zone woman finds time hanging heavily on her hands and unless she becomes interested in some certain thing homesickness is sure to come. The commission has worked bravely at the task of amusing and occupying the woman folks. It employs a professional organizer of Women's Clubs—a tactful woman from the United States, who has been unusually successful in this work.

Even with all the amusements furnished the Canal is a man's work, and with a woman the novelty of living there soon wears off. The high salary of her husband is the one thing to charm—money can be earned there with more ease than in the United States, and many of the married couples are laying away snug sums for a rainy day.

While the commission furnishes amusements for the employees, these are so arranged that the Canal work is not interfered with by the recreation. Panama City and Colon are not under the jurisdiction of the United States so far as amusements are concerned, and both of these cities abound in saloons where bad whiskey and worse beer are sold and gambling houses are numerous. In order that the temptation to indulge in these things may be kept out of the Canal employees' reach no trains are run out of these cities late at night, so the man must stay in his own town in the evening in order to be at his work early the next morning. On Saturday extra trains are run, and the last one on Sunday evening from Colon or Panama City will land the employee at his home in plenty of time to get a good night's rest before going to work on Monday morning. At Panama City a University Club has been organized. This is, of course, somewhat exclusive, and its membership is limited to professional men.

The European laborers have their dances and parties. They are also ardent rooters for the baseball teams of their sections. The Jamaican negro boys play at cricket and play it well.

Bowling in one of the Club Houses

The chief amusement of the negroes, however, is riding on the trains and sometimes their entire month's wages go for this purpose. They simply cross and recross the Isthmus as long as the money to pay the car fare lasts.

Playgrounds for the children have been established, and special playground teachers have been brought from the States to take charge of the work. The Women's Clubs are interested in these and have raised a large amount of money for extra equipment for the grounds.

It is not the purpose of the writer to class churches as an amusement, but many of the social affairs are connected with church work, and these are encouraged by the commission. A number of suitable buildings to accommodate those who wish to attend religious services have been constructed. Several of these buildings are two stories and the upper rooms are used as lodge rooms for the various fraternal organizations and the lower floor for church services. Ladies' Aid Societies, Women's Missionary Societies, Altar Guilds, etc., are connected with these churches. The negroes, too, have their Sunday schools and the Salvation Army has done excellent work among the Jamaicans. A building was given at Cristobal to the Salvation Army, which began its work in the Zone eight years ago. The majority of the Salvation Army workers on the Zone are Jamaicans, and their work is almost entirely confined to the negroes.

Every means is employed to afford to the workman, as far as conditions will permit, the same healthful and innocent diversions he has at home, and the success of the commission in this respect is evidenced by the comparatively few men who now return to the States solely on account of the eventless, monotonous life on the Canal Zone.

ANOTHER POMPEIIAN TREASURE.

In the course of excavations at Pompeii a discovery of great artistic and archaeological importance was made in the shape of a fresco, of exquisite beauty and in perfect conservation decorating the facade of a house on the public road. It represents Venus wearing a diadem surrounded by cupids in a quadriga drawn by four elephants. All the figures are drawn with remarkable fidelity, and the coloring is harmonious and quite fresh. The fresco was protected by the roof, which was intact.

AUSTRALIA CONTROLS HER OWN NAVAL FORCE

Member of House of Representatives Says Commonwealth's Fleet is For Protection of Her Own Shores

Before leaving for Seattle yesterday afternoon W. N. Hedges, Liberal member for Fremantle in the Australian House of Representatives, made to a Times man some pertinent remarks of criticism on the sabbled statement appearing in the local press that the Liberal party of the Commonwealth had approached Sir Joseph Ward, former premier of New Zealand, to take up his residence in Australia and lead the party. The significant part of the message to which the Australian visitor took exception was the alleged remark of Hon. Alfred Deakin, the premier, that the naval policy of the Commonwealth would be altered to bring the vessels directly under the control of the British admiralty as in the case of New Zealand.

Mr. Hedges said as a member of the Liberal party that neither that party nor the Australian people generally would ever stand for Sir Joseph Ward as leader, for they did not want discarded politicians whose popularity had been outlived in their own country. The party, it was true, embraced a section of discontented men who wished to see Mr. Deakin retire, but it was difficult to secure men of ability to devote themselves to politics when they could earn far more in commercial and professional life. The time was coming when they would unite probably under a new leader, but he would not be a man who had been cast off by his own people, when his political influence waned.

No one who knew Australian spirit could for one moment anticipate that they would go back on their naval policy. The parties were united in carrying through Admiral Sir R. Henderson's recommendations, and they all recognized that the admiral had suggested a course which it would be the wisest for the Commonwealth to follow. The Labor administration was only carrying out in a less ambitious way the recommendations of the Deakin ministry to parliament, and after spending as much as they had on the navy, having boats already in Australian waters, and others building, ultimately leading to an expenditure of some twelve million pounds, it would be folly for any government to suggest going back on the approved policy of the House of Representatives and Senate. Not only was building going forward, but repair shops were being erected to put vessels into condition after accidents, and bases at Sydney on the east, and Fremantle on the west had been secured and would afford that provision for repairs and supplies as essential as the ships themselves.

Mr. Hedges expressed himself strongly in favor of the exchange of officers with the British navy, and said if Canada did the same thing the personnel so affected must be paid the current salaries of the countries employing them. The morale of the example of British officers would be beneficial to the overseas dominions, as well as of value to the officers.

The only way in which Australia would allow her navy to be used would be during actual warfare to strike against her enemies in the China seas, whence came her fear, and then one admiral, and one only, could command. In time of peace control must be absolutely vested in the Australian parliament.

It would be observed that the base of the British fleet was to be changed from Sydney to Auckland, but he believed the result would be that the British admiralty would withdraw from the China seas, and leave the defence of the Dominion of New Zealand to the Australian fleet. From the north came Australia's peril, and there, in time of war her fleet would be concentrated.

Not only were they developing Admiral Henderson's naval programme, on the seas and in shipyards, but the fortifications were undergoing repairs and strengthening, and the cadet movement, now happily launched, was training young men to be ready for the defence of the country, and Australia would be ready when the time came. Naval and military defence were no yoke in Australia, nor the plaything of parties to secure political capital.

Australia's naval policy, according to the information furnished by Mr. Hedges may be summed up as follows: Australian navy for Australia's protection.

Australia's warships to be built in Australian shipyards just as soon as this can be done. Two destroyers are now being built there.

Australia's absolute executive control over Australian ships.

This policy, it will be observed, was very closely followed in the Laurier naval policy.

In connection with the above the Melbourne Argus prints the following special dispatch from London: Authoritative denial is given to the suggestion contained in the Daily Telegraph that the admiralty contemplate making a departure from the original arrangement with regard to the disposition of the vessels being built for the Australian navy.

It is stated that except for the substitution of the armored cruiser Deakin for the battle-cruiser New Zealand as flagship of the China station there has been no reconsideration of the 1905 agreement.

The Daily Telegraph had hinted at the probability that the admiralty would not be able to spare crews for the Australian warships if the Commonwealth insisted on having them in their own waters.

On this point the official communique emphasizes that the battle-cruiser Australia, the second-class cruisers Melbourne and Sydney, and the other ships will be fully manned for service in Australia in accordance with the admiralty's undertaking, and adds: "There never has been any suggestion that the Commonwealth should in any way modify its policy as agreed to at the Imperial conference. The admiralty agrees and sympathizes entirely with the Australian view."

The Argus also publishes an interview with Senator Pearce, minister of defence, in which he says: "Even taking the anti-German view into consideration," he added—"and I trust that that view, so far as it suggests a coming clash between the two nations, is wholly unsubstantial—it has to be remembered that Germany has a strong fleet in the Pacific. Reliance cannot be placed on the Japanese fleet as a counteracting force, because the Japanese alliance is conditional. It is a defensive alliance, having for its object the mutual protection of interests in the East, and does not necessarily apply to the Pacific. In my reading of the alliance, it does not extend beyond an obligation to defend each other's Asiatic possessions. The English journals' references to the battleship New Zealand are altogether beside the question. The Commonwealth and New Zealand have each a definite and distinct policy. The Commonwealth policy stands for the creation and development of a naval force in Australia, to co-operate with the British fleet, while the New Zealand policy is to give monetary subsidies to assist in the development of the British navy. Under the original proposal, the battleship New Zealand was to go to the China station. It seems to me that, even from a New Zealand point of view, it is immaterial whether the battleship is in China or New Zealand. Therefore, the proposition to send the battleship New Zealand to the North Sea does not involve any alteration of New Zealand's policy. Such a policy in time of peace would be a negation of the Australian policy."

GERMAN DESIGN FOR UNSINKABLE VESSEL

Will Make Great Atlantic Liner Obsolete—Has Two Frame-works—One Within Other

According to information from a reliable source, one of the German steamship companies engaged in the trans-Atlantic passenger traffic—the North German Lloyd—is about to take up the consideration of plans for the construction of an "unsinkable ship."

The type of vessel in contemplation is that designed by Prof. Kretschmer, of the Technical High School at Charlottenburg.

Up to the present German builders have hesitated to undertake so radical a departure. Of late certain shipping experts have been urging that as a vessel of the unsinkable pattern is certain to be built somewhere, Germany should take the lead and get a start over its maritime competitors.

The launching of a ship which the travelling public believed to be really unsinkable would, it is pointed out, specially make every other type of Atlantic liner obsolete.

The "unsinkable ship" designed by Professor Kretschmer is a complete novelty, and is the result of years of experiment which have led to the drawing of a complete and detailed design for a fast passenger steamer of about 250 meters in length.

The essential feature of Professor Kretschmer's ship is that it contains within the outer hull a second frame-work, completely enclosed and watertight—practically a ship within a ship. The lower decks of this interior ship will contain the boilers, machinery and bunkers.

In order to make this form of construction feasible as well as to secure a greater stability and other advantages, Professor Kretschmer has designed a hull of tetrahedral shape. Sharply pointed at the bows, the ship continues to widen to a point well aft near the stern, where the breadth of beam at the loadwater line is about thirty meters.

The inventor claims that the new design offers increased assurances of safety in many respects. The ship's lines, he affirms, ensure not only greater stability, but a reduction of water-resistance, with a consequent increase in steaming capacity. The great passenger liners of the latest type have a draught of from ten to twelve metres, while the Kretschmer ship has a draught only seven and a half metres, together with great breadth of beam.

As to whether ships of this kind are commercially practicable, Professor Kretschmer affirms that they could be run at higher speed and with less coal consumption than the liners of normal type. The "unsinkable," with a total length of 250 metres and 18,750 tons displacement, is expected to develop a speed of from 25 to 28 knots, with 40,000 indicated horse-power. The Mauretania, he urges, with a length of 232 metres and 42,000 tons displacement, has a speed of 25 knots and 70,000 horse-power.

The excess coal consumption needed to produce 20,000 greater horse-power than the new form of ship requires must in itself mean greater cost of operation.

Professor Kretschmer is especially sanguine as to the adaptability of the new system for warships, and has completed plans for a tetrahedral Dreadnaught of 23,500 tons, armed with twelve 15-inch guns.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WEST RIVER PIRATES FIRE ON STEAMER

Menace to Navigation of Important Southern Chinese River

The South China Morning Post, to hand on the Chicago Maru, says it is greatly feared there will yet be a lot of trouble with the pirates on the West River. Those whose lot is cast on the steamers which ply thence do not conceal the grave anxiety they are experiencing. Minor outrages continue to be reported almost daily.

Whilst passing through the Sai Lam Channel towards Kongmoon, the steamship Shun Lee was fired at from the bank, and considering the short range it was a matter for considerable wonder that no one was hit. Quite a number of shots were fired, and some of them took effect on the vessel. One bullet struck one of the lifeboats, passing straight through and out on the other side; plain evidence that the rifles in use were far from being playthings. All the passengers were asleep at the time, it being as early as half past two o'clock, but many of them were awakened by the shots and elements of panic began to manifest themselves. But as the boat proceeded without further incident all fears were soon quieted.

A few evenings later the Shun Lee, which belongs to the Sze Yip Company and trades up river from Hongkong—was at the scene of further exciting occurrences, though she herself was not attacked on this occasion. It was about seven o'clock, and the boat was between Fish Cliffs and West Ma-nig, when two steam launches were seen towing a number of Chinese cargo and passenger boats. A large number of armed men on the banks, all attired in black, commenced to fire on the "fleet." But a sturdy resistance was offered. One of the launches detached itself and showed fight, engaging the attention of the attackers whilst the other launch towed the boats away. As far as could be seen from the Shun Lee there were no casualties, though the desultory firing was still being kept up as the steamer passed on her way.

CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

The Canadian Magazine for July is a good mid-summer number. Francis A. Carman on "Borden's Parliamentary Manner" pictures the premier as leader of the House of Commons and is in itself a most entertaining contribution. Another article of significance is "Grenfell From a Deck Chair," by W. Lacey Amy, in which this interesting writer tells about criticisms of this famous missionary which he had heard in Newfoundland and Labrador. An article on the valuable old masterpieces of the Laval University, written by J. J. Phillips, gives a fine review of this important collection. There are five reproductions from the original paintings at Laval. Other contributions are "A Young Volunteer," by Ida Burroughs; "Bath," An Ancient Watering Place," by Norman Trick; "Plays of the Mid-Season," by John E. Webber, with poems and short stories by Arthur Stringer, Captain Leslie T. Penock, Madge Macbeth, Florence Warden, Beatrice Redpath, Emma Playter Seabury, John Boyd, Frederick C. Curry, and Edith T. Bayne.

SONG OF SANDS.

In the North African desert at some times in the year a curious phenomenon can be heard.

It is the "song of the sands."

No one can say whence this song comes, but it is due to atmospheric conditions.

There are few distinct sounds; one is like the wind in telegraph poles, the other like the after-reverberation of a big striking clock.

During the time the "song of the sands" can be heard some of the sand dunes when trodden on give out a hollow, bell-like sound, and where the surface of the desert is covered with sandstone a tinkling noise is heard when this is trodden on.

BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.

A loss of money is foretold to you, also a disagreement with some friend. To offset this take special care of your health and train your interests in other directions.

Those born to-day may be unpleasant children, but rightly trained will grow to be remarkably brilliant men and women. Their faults to overcome are laziness and selfishness.

IDEAS OF A PLAIN MAN

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

Did you ever stop to think what a lot of things you keep on doing for no reason at all, or for the silly reasons that you always have done them or that everybody else does them?

Why, for instance, do you confine your feet all summer in uncomfortable leather air-tight casings? Why do you go on living with disagreeable people? Why do you eat when you are not hungry, and eat what you don't like? Why do you go on working for money when you have money enough? Why do you keep up acquaintance with and devote time to people who bore you? Why do you attend lectures?

Professor Ross, in his book, "The Changing Chinese," gives us some Chinese traits it will do us good to think on. The river junk has a big eye painted on either side of the prow so that the boat may "look see" its way. They have never inquired whether these optical craft fare better than others.

Just inside the doorway of the courtyard a brick screen is built in order that the viewless demons of the air may collide disastrously with it when they seek to enter the domicile. To no one has it occurred to mark whether families without such screens have worse luck than other families.

In a word the Chinese have never accepted the principle of efficiency, which is, that means to be chosen for a given purpose should be those which actually, surely, promptly and economically produce the required results.

But what about us? Is not most of our life spent in imitating others, and following irrational customs? Isn't doing as one pleases about the hardest thing in the world to do?

Glass doors are placed in some of the new cooking stoves to enable the cook to watch the food in the oven without opening the door.

The material from which meerschaum pipes are made is becoming scarcer and the large pipe-making industry of Europe seems endangered.

MAN LEAPED IN FRONT OF TRAIN

Coroner's Jury Returned Verdict of Suicide After Investigating Case

New Westminster, July 17.—That the death of Thomas Mahoney on Thursday evening last was not the outcome of an accident, but a deliberate case of suicide, was the verdict of the jury, through their foreman, Mr. E. A. Atkins, of Coquitlam, at the inquest held at the provincial court house. Mahoney was struck by the engine of a C. P. R. train from Agassiz, bound for Vancouver, at Westminster Junction. Both of the unfortunate man's legs were severed from his body, also his left arm was badly crushed. Dr. Sutnerland was summoned, but Mahoney was dead before the doctor reached the scene.

Alexander Cockerill, fireman on work train 1332, engaged in operation at the C. P. R. yards, who witnessed the fatality, testified that Mahoney rushed in front of the engine as it was approaching the junction. He dived in front of it as if he were taking a plunge into the water. The unfortunate man evidently had some great sorrow or worry on his mind, as he is reported to have been very quiet and reserved for some time, seeming to be brooding over something. He had on the evening of the suicide been hanging round the engine of the work train in an aimless manner for half an hour before the passenger train came in sight. Fireman Cockerill did not think that the engineer saw the man rush in front of the engine, nor in his opinion could he have stopped in time to avoid the occurrence.

The engineer, Edward Hiff, testified that he knew nothing of the occurrence until informed of the affair at the junction upon his return trip from Vancouver to Agassiz, by Constable Edwards. He stated that he was on a curve looking ahead to see if the signals were right and a clear track ahead. He was going at a pretty lively rate at the time, but might, he noticed the man, have applied the emergency brakes, but even then could not have stopped altogether, although it might have enabled the man to get across the track, had he so desired.

The jury, in their verdict, that in their opinion, Mahoney was temporarily deranged at the time of the suicide. Very little is known of the unfortunate man, he being a newcomer in this district.

BUMPER CROP EXPECTED.

Grand Forks, July 17.—At the annual general meeting of the Grand Forks Fruit Growers' Association James Rooke was re-elected president; W. T. Ross, vice-president; and W. H. Colling, W. F. Armstrong, E. Horrick and A. Trautwein, directors. The association is looking forward to a very successful year's business this season as the fruit crop in the Kettle valley never looked better or more promising than at the present time. The ranchers throughout the valley are now busy thinning out their apple, pear and plum trees, in order to allow the branches to carry the load throughout the season, as well as to enhance the value of the product.

WATER SYSTEM TO BE IMPROVED

By-law to Raise $50,000 Will Be Submitted to Nanaimo Ratepayers

Nanaimo, July 17.—At the weekly meeting of the city council a petition was received from a number of ratepayers asking for the resubmission of a by-law authorizing the borrowing of $50,000 to install an enlarged water supply on this side of the city. The petition was received and request granted.

On motion of Ald. Forrester, seconded by Ald. McKinnell the Waterworks Improvement By-Law was given the first and second readings, and will be considered in committee at the next regular meeting of the council. On motion of Ald. Busby the Street Paving No. 1 Amendment By-Law was given the first reading; further consideration of the Street Traffic Regulation By-Law being deferred one week.

On motion of Ald. Young, the council decided to grant the sum of $200 to the Agricultural Society, which amount had been voted by last year's council, but had not been turned over to the society. Ald. Shepherd called the attention of the lighting committee to what was considered an overcharge in the by-law for the wiring of houses in the city. In reply Ald. Young stated the committee had the question under consideration. He considered little fault could be found with the present charges, and if anything the proposed changes would be more drastic than the present by-law.

FATAL BLAST.

Vancouver, July 17.—The stone that was blown 1,000 feet and caused the death of Sunder Singh, weighed less than a pound and would not cover the palm of a man's hand. Sunder Singh was employed on the C. P. R. clearing on Granville street south. It is the custom to let off the blasts on this work at noon. The foreman sent out the usual guards with red flags to prevent the approach of persons till after the blast had gone off. One of these men, Gunda Singh, was accompanied on his walk out to the safety line by Sunder Singh and while Gunda waved his red flag and called out "blast" and "fire," Sunder sat down to eat his lunch. Gunda did not see any stone coming, he swore, but he saw Gunda collapse, and then he set up a shout. Sunder was removed to the hospital, where he died soon after admission from a fractured skull. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

MISS L. A. HOLLAND DEAD.

Vancouver, July 17.—News of the death of Miss Lillian Agnes Holland, daughter of W. S. Holland, which occurred on Monday at the home of her parents, 2620 Connaught street, will be received with great regret by her numerous friends and acquaintances. The late Miss Holland had not been in good health for many months and during the past few weeks her illness had become more acute, but not till a few days ago was it thought it might have a fatal termination. The young lady was but eighteen years of age. The late Miss Holland was one of the most enthusiastic horsewomen and she was a well-known figure at horse shows, where she rode and drove the entries of her father's stable. Her skill in the handling of horses was great, and she was a great favorite among lovers of horses.

Roseland, July 17.—At a meeting of the Progressive Association the secretary was instructed to write to the city council asking them to have a number of unoccupied buildings condemned and pulled down, as besides being unsightly and unhealthy, they are a menace to the public safety.

STIRRING LIFE OF GALLANT SOLDIER

HOW SIR GEO. WHITE WON VICTORIA CROSS

London Newspaper Discusses His Defence of Ladysmith and Its Expediency

London papers to hand contain lengthy appreciative biographical notices of the late Field Marshal Sir George White, V. C., the heroic defender of Ladysmith, who died recently. The London Standard says:

What was probably Sir George's last appearance was on Monday, May 20, when he walked through the flower show at Chelsea, which was then being prepared in readiness for the visit of the King and Queen on the following Wednesday. The gallant field-marshal, who appeared at that time to be very ill and feeble, was leaning heavily on the arm of Lady White. It was owing to serious indisposition that Sir George was unable to receive the King and Queen a few days later on the occasion of their visit to the Royal hospital, of which he had been governor since 1904. His death created a vacancy in the governorship of that historic institution, which is generally supposed to be held alternately by distinguished members of the sister services.

By his death the Empire loses a great soldier. His defence of Ladysmith has already passed into history as one of the outstanding features of the war in South Africa. Lord Dufferin, who as viceroy had been Sir George's chief in India, described him as "a most distinguished soldier of whom his native Austria might well be proud."

Field Marshal Sir George, Stuart White, V. C., G. C. M. G., G. C. V. O., G. C. I. E., G. C. B., G. C. S. I., O. M., was born in County Antrim, Ireland, on July 6, 1835. Passing through Sandhurst, he joined the "Inniskillings" in 1855, and served with the regiment in the Indian mutiny. As second in command of the Gordon Highlanders, he led that famous corps in their gallant charge at Charasiah in the Afghan war of 1878-80. For that action, and for further distinguished conduct at Kandahar, he received the Victoria Cross.

Lord Roberts, in his "Forty-one Years in India," writes in connection with the Charasiah incident as follows: "I marched by the Sang-i-Nawishia defile, where Major White met me and explained to me his part in the victory of the previous day. From my inspection of the ground, I had no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that much of the success which attended the operations on this side was due to White's military instincts and, at one supreme moment, his extreme personal gallantry. It afforded me, therefore, very great pleasure to recommend this officer for the Victoria Cross, an honor of which more than one incident in his subsequent career proved him to be well worthy."

Winning the Victoria Cross. The incident is described in greater detail in the following paragraph from Hensman's "History of the Afghan War":

"I must now turn to Major White's movements on our right, where had been one of the most gallant feats of the day. The feat in this direction had been turned into a successful attack, resulting in the capture of 20 guns, although our infantry numbered only a few hundreds, and our cavalry were unable to act. The infantry attack was led personally by Major White, who at the head of only 50 Highlanders charged the first hill on the right, where several hundred Afghans were posted. Our men went up with a rush under a severe musketry fire, and the enemy waited as if to receive them at the point of the bayonet. With such odds in their favor the British were mainly due to Major White's personal gallantry, one striking instance of which may be quoted. Not caring to expose his men in a particularly steep bit of ground which was enfiladed by a few Afghans well placed in the rear of some rocks, he took a loaded rifle and stalked the enemy single-handed. By cautious climbing he reached the rocks behind which they were concealed, and as he showed himself they fired at him and he was killed."

Lord Roberts has approved of the general action, which is referred to in the following terms in Mr. Amery's excellent book on the war: "But a consideration of the difficult problem that he had to face tends to show that it would have required a very great soldier to have risen superior to the reasons that determined Sir George White's action. . . . It is at least arguable that the strategically less serious effect upon Cape Colony of a hasty evacuation of Ladysmith, and to adopt a passive attitude in so doing, Sir George White showed all the sterling soldierly qualities that had marked his distinguished career."

By his unflinching courage and fortitude he inspired his men to support great privations and to repel desperate attacks. His refusal to take General Buller's advice to "make the best terms he could" with the enemy will not easily be forgotten. Broken utterly in health, Sir George White returned to England at the end of the days of Ladysmith, which lasted his nose of Gibraltar. Three years later, whilst still in occupation of that post, Sir George was promoted field marshal, the baton of the rank being handed to him personally by King Edward VII. on the occasion of that monarch's visit to Gibraltar. In 1906 Sir George became governor of Chelsea hospital, and received from his Sovereign the Order of Merit.

himself they jumped up and ran, no doubt in the full belief that the single figure was only the leader of a number of others. One man stayed to fire, but missed his aim, and as he turned Major White shot him through the head. Unfortunately, he had no more cartridges or some of the others would have followed. This hill is to be called White's Hill in memory of his gallantry." The Victoria Cross was also awarded for gallantry during the dash on Kandahar.

He served with distinction in the Nile expedition, 1884-5, and in the Burmese war, 1885-87, being promoted major-general and left to accomplish the difficult task of pacifying the country. In 1890 he commanded the Zulu expedition, and in 1892 succeeded Lord Roberts as commander-in-chief in India. In 1898, on his return to England, he went to the war office as quartermaster-general, and when the Boer war broke out a year later was sent to command the forces in Natal. It is in connection with this period in his career that history will have most to say about Sir George White.

Chained to Ladysmith. Undoubtedly there is a good deal of ground for adverse criticism of much that Sir George White did in regard to the operations in and around Ladysmith, but in common fairness to the general the critics must make full allowance for the way in which his hands were tied by political considerations. Sound military strategy demanded that White's army should remain a mobile field force and not become the garrison of a beleaguered town; but that might have meant the abandonment of the capture of Ladysmith, contingencies which, apparently, the civil authorities in South Africa did not dare to contemplate, and so Sir George White was chained to the town.

The fortunes of his army, and indeed of the whole war, were largely influenced by the serious defeat which he experienced on October 20, 1899, at the battle variously described as that of Lombard's Kop, Modder Spruit and Ladysmith. The British general's plan of action was a bold one; he decided to meet the wider extension tactics of the Boer forces by a still wider extension of his own line, so as to outflank and roll up the whole of the enemy's position. The superior mobility of the Boer army defeated this plan, the slow-moving British force was quite unable to reply to the rapid changes of position which the Boers carried out, and eventually was enveloped and driven back. Dr. Conan Doyle has described the affair as a "scrambling, inconsequential, unsatisfactory action." The German official account of the war puts the defeat down to "omissions and errors of leadership."

But generalship was not alone at fault. Sir George White was handicapped by the fact that the British army was not properly organized, equipped, or armed for the task it had in hand in South Africa, a fact recognized by the first time at the battle of Ladysmith, and emphasized later in actions fought by General Buller, Lord Methuen and others. The Boers did not follow up the victory that "mournful Monday" gave them, and it has been urged that Sir George White had time and opportunity to recover from the misfortunes of day, so as to be able to resist the Boer attack and keep his army going as an active field force. As it was, he permitted himself to be "entangled in Ladysmith" with a big force of cavalry and artillery, which was wasted in the course of the siege. Undoubtedly the general made a very grave mistake when he refused to follow the advice of General French and his staff to evacuate the town, and to take the south of the Tugela immediately after the defeat of October 20; but there is a good deal to be said in support of his decision to hold Ladysmith.

Sterling Soldierly Qualities. Lord Roberts has approved of the general action, which is referred to in the following terms in Mr. Amery's excellent book on the war: "But a consideration of the difficult problem that he had to face tends to show that it would have required a very great soldier to have risen superior to the reasons that determined Sir George White's action. . . . It is at least arguable that the strategically less serious effect upon Cape Colony of a hasty evacuation of Ladysmith, and to adopt a passive attitude in so doing, Sir George White showed all the sterling soldierly qualities that had marked his distinguished career."

By his unflinching courage and fortitude he inspired his men to support great privations and to repel desperate attacks. His refusal to take General Buller's advice to "make the best terms he could" with the enemy will not easily be forgotten. The shaft is about sixty feet deep, and was started on the ledge, but, as it is perpendicular, it ran out of the ore when half way down. A sample of the ore was assayed and gave the following returns: Gold, 35; copper, 3.1 per cent; silver, 28 ounces; lead, 3 per cent; total, $54. There is a ledge 150 feet north of the ledge that is being operated, which carries some fine looking ore, which Messrs. Oliver and Forteach, the owners, intend to begin work on within a few days. A number have visited the find on the Curlew since it was made and they declare that it is an important

MINISTERS PAY
VISIT TO HAZELTONG. T. P. Officials Accompany Party on Portion of Tour

Hazelton, July 17.—After enjoying the hospitality of the citizens of Prince Rupert, the premier and his party made an early start by special train yesterday morning. They were accompanied by William Manson, M. P. P., and C. W. D. Clifford, formerly member of the legislature for the district. The private car of W. C. C. McMillan, general superintendent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, was placed at their disposal for the journey to Skeena Crossing, from which point the Omineca was requisitioned for a special trip up the river to Hazelton. Mr. McMillan and the divisional superintendent, G. A. McNicholl accompanied the party and saw that everything possible was done for the comfort of the travellers. Incidentally, the two gentlemen of the Grand Trunk Pacific took occasion to explain with quite justifiable pride, what progress the road is making and how excellently the construction work is being done. From Rupert, as it is called by everybody who has been there for more than a day, the roadbed is perfectly level nearly all the way to Skeena Crossing, while in no place does the grade exceed four-tenths of one per cent. With heavy rails and thoroughly ballasted the track is the equal of any on the continent, a boast which no other company in America has been able to make until after being in operation for several years. Business moreover is picking up fast, as settlers are coming in. The settlements still have a rather straggling appearance but improvements are being made rapidly.

SEATTLE POTLATCH.

Celebration of Alaska Day Feature of Week's Festivities.

Seattle, Wash., July 17.—This is Alaska Day, one of the best featured events of the present week's festivities of the Potlatch, the gold ship Portland portraying the arrival of the vessel that brought the first ton of gold from Alaska. Hyas Tye, George W. Allen, was the passenger of honor aboard the steamship Portland, which arrived at the G. T. P. dock at 1 p. m., escorted by two torpedo boat destroyers and a flotilla of fifty smaller merchant craft of the Sound, whose decks were black with sightseers who had gone out beyond Alki Point to greet the incoming Argonauts. Aboard were many "sourdoughs" who, in the Alaska pageant, which followed the arrival of "Hyas Tye" scattered gold dust along the line of march to be caught by souvenir hunters. The grand Alaskan pageant, produced by the Tilkums of Elitae, depicting the history of Alaska from its earliest traditional period, is probably the crowning display of the Potlatch pageants.

Prices Barely Sustained at Opening—Grangers Advance in Final Hour's Trading

(By Courtesy F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, July 17.—It was a sleepy market in the earlier trading with prices barely sustained, although some few specialties were slightly higher. It appeared that conditions surrounding the market had not been changed, and the apathy of strong interests was rather strongly demonstrated by the lack of nervousness on the part of the short element which retreats rapidly upon any suggestion of aggressive buying. It was during the last hour's trading that a change for the better was seen in the action, which was undoubtedly stimulated by the drastic hammering in the commodity market when wheat prices closed at bottom. Naturally the grangers were particularly affected and made noticeable advances. It remains to be seen whether this last movement of the day is to be of any permanent duration, it having to be remembered that both the political and monetary outlook are not as yet reassuring, and as a result irregularity may still feature the market for a time.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Canadian Northwest grain belt needs dry and warm weather. Winnipeg curb wheat is 4 higher. It is said on very trustworthy authority that at the meeting in August the regular 2 1/2 rate will be declared at that time on Union Pacific. The company this year will probably earn between 14 and 14 1/2 per cent. on its common stock, compared with 12 1/2 per cent. the previous year. Frost is reported at Sorel, N. D. Forecast for the United States grain belt, generally fair throughout. Snow's report from Southern Minnesota and Western Iowa favorable on wheat. The regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent. has been declared on North American.

SEEK PROTECTION.

London, July 17.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Melbourne says that Australian meat exporters are alarmed at the news that the Swifts are setting up big meat packing works at Brisbane, and ask the government to interfere to protect trade against American trust methods.

POWER SUPPLY FAILS.

Toronto, July 17.—The board of control held a conference yesterday with the board of trade and the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, to consider the reported tie-up of industrial and local transportation by the failure of the electric power supplied from Niagara. Application to the courts and to the Ontario hydro-electric commission were suggested. Another conference will be held on Thursday with the chairman of the hydro-electric commission present and General Manager Fleming will be forthcoming action will be taken to make the Electric Development Company and Toronto Railway Company live up to their franchise.

OPIUM SEIZED AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 17.—That Montreal is the centre of the opium traffic in Canada is the opinion of the police department. Police have been investigating places in which the drug is sold. Yesterday afternoon Chief of Police Carpentier raided a house on La Gauchetière street west, finding a large quantity of the drug, together with pipes and other accessories. One hundred Chinamen were taken to the police station charged with being implicated in one way or another with the buying or selling of the stuff, and a vigorous campaign is now under way against further traffic of the same nature.

LAUNCH CAPSIZED.

Father and Son Lose Their Lives in the Red River.

Winnipeg, July 17.—George Johnston, sr., and George Johnston, jr., father and son, met death by drowning in the Red river yesterday afternoon, when the launch in which they had set out was capsized by a squall. The launch was captained by a local fisherman, Fred Parker, son-in-law of the drowned man, managed to struggle to shore. The propeller of the launch stopped working just after the party had set out with the boat, when it came broadside to the wind and a sudden gust turned it over. Johnston, sr., was about 65 years old. The son was about 35. All three were contractors.

ANOTHER DECLINEIN CHICAGO PIT

Long Liquidation Responsible for Drop in Prices—Ideal Crop Conditions

(By Courtesy F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Chicago, July 17.—A resumption of long liquidation in wheat carried prices off again to-day. Weather conditions in the Northwest were again favorable and there was but little complaint of any kind in regard to crop conditions. Ingalls and other experts continue to report nothing but ideal conditions. The cash demand was moderate here and the country offerings not especially heavy, although there have been fair sales of western wheat to come to Chicago. Not much red winter wheat on sale. Foreign news regarding mixed crop conditions in Western Europe were a little less satisfactory, and prices abroad not much changed. European visible decreased nearly 5,000,000 bushels. It is becoming a little too fashionable to bear wheat prices after such drastic liquidation, and it must be taken into consideration that the spring wheat crop has not been harvested and that the winter wheat crop is not likely to be sacrificed in price by the farmers. Consequently conservative operations are advisable as the market is likely to be over-sold. Futures of corn were under heavy pressure early, even short covering failing to check the decline. Cash demand slow, and there was a further setback in sample prices. Weather favorable as a rule, and this at present is the chief market influence, other features being ignored. With no serious crop troubles, the cash market features will be reversed, and until over-selling congests market. Oats still weaker.

To the Editor: "The Rev. Mr. Ard supplements my citation from Rom. 10: xvii, with the words that follow: "And hearing by the word of God." On this I observe that the Revised Version has "the word of Christ," and that in any case the capital letter is not in the text of the epistle and is misleading. That St. Paul does not here mean the written Word of God, or Scripture, is plain from the scope and context of the passage, which runs in the Revised Version: "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent? even as it is written: How beautiful are the feet of them that bring glad tidings of good things. But they did not all hearken to the glad tidings. For Isaiah said, Lord, who hath believed our report? So belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ. But I say, did they not hear? Yea, verily. "Their sound went out into all the earth. And their words unto the ends of the world."

To discuss Mr. Ard's citations from the Fathers would carry me too far afield, and is foreign to my purpose. I will only point out that St. Basil in the place referred to (Question 98), is setting down directions for his monks, as appears from the query to which the words quoted by Mr. Ard give the answer: "Is it advisable for those who have recently entered to learn at once the testimonies of Scripture?" It would have been absurd for St. Basil to declare it "necessary that every one should thoroughly learn out of the divinely inspired Scriptures," at a time when comparatively few could have ready access to the rather rare M. S. S., and many could neither read or write.

TERMINAL PLANS.

To the Editor: I studied with infinite interest, as I am sure did every live man in Victoria, the proposed terminal plans as appeared in the Colonist to-day. I am not taking any political stand on this, as I have always supported the provincial Conservative party, but I feel with many other Victorians certain things should be pointed out before this long-looked-for settlement is "final and unalterable."

Mr. Holman is no doubt an able man, and has carried out the instructions of the government as far as the Songhees Reserve goes, taking it solely into consideration, but he has signally failed where considering the whole situation as far as the port of Victoria is concerned. What is the use of our talking "Panama canal," "elevators," "wheat shipments," etc., when we have the following fundamental facts staring us in the face, and we fail to make use of them.

1. The Dominion government have decided upon a larger and comprehensive breakwater, wharf and dock scheme on the outer harbor.

2. The provincial government have a large amount of money tied up in the Indian Reserve, which is very properly going to be held for the people to be used for railroad development for Victoria.

3. The cost of a bascule bridge from Songhees Point to Laurel Point is a mere bagatelle compared with the enormous cost of the proposed terminal plans.

hancement it will bring to the utility and value of both the Indian Reserve and the outer docks, both of which are owned by the people and held for their benefit.

What in the name of common sense is the use of carrying out both of these large projects without connecting them, and thereby making Victoria a port in reality instead of in name only. Where will the port of Victoria be if this is not done? Mr. Holman's plan as laid out virtually blocks for all time such a connection. Surely the Minister of Railways must see this, as it is obvious to any one. It is perfectly apparent to me that this plan was published without any thought as to Victoria as a port, without any idea of using the great natural advantages we have, and the auspicious time we now enjoy with both these large projects culminating at the same time. Surely such an opportunity will not be missed by Victorians, and I feel confident had Sir Richard McBride been in town the plan as we see it would never have been published, as it is neither worthy of him nor of the aspirations of Victoria as the Pacific port of Canada.

CONNECT UP.MOTORS WHEN STANDING.

To the Editor: Some motorists have unthinkingly denounced as frivolous the police regulation that all motors when standing must observe the rule of the road precisely the same as when moving. Last evening the value of this regulation was very strongly impressed upon me. About ten o'clock last evening I was going up Oak Bay avenue when I observed a car coming towards me, or so it seemed. When I came closer the glare of its head-lights (which were very powerful) was such that I could not see the road. I now saw, however, that the car was at a standstill, and, never dreaming that anyone would stop on his wrong side, I held to the left, with the result that I soon found myself against the sidewalk. I was driving very slowly at the time, which is all that averted what might have been a very serious accident. At night in particular, a careful observance of the rule of the road is absolutely imperative.

VANCOUVER ISLAND DEVELOPMENT LEAGUE.

To the Editor:—A recent issue of the Winnipeg Free Press lists me as one of the Seymour Narrows delegation which recently visited Ottawa to interview Premier Borden. This error was probably caused by my enthusiasm for the bridging of Seymour Narrows, and my appreciation of the work done by the delegation at Ottawa. The interviewers doubtless meant well, but I never at any time said I was one of the delegation.

The names of the men composing the delegation have long ago been published broadcast over Canada, and are too well known to necessitate repeating.

Accidents will happen, even in the best regulated newspapers, and I am endeavoring to remedy this error at the earliest moment.

NEVER BELONGED TO ORDER.

To the Editor: With much interest I have read Mr. Phipps's letter in your paper, but I must say I can hardly agree with him. I am sure Mr. Phipps never belonged to an Orange order, so am at a loss to understand where he gets any foundation for his argument. If he ever did belong to an Orange order, then his principles must be small. I would like to ask him to kindly read Rev. Stanley Ard's sermon over again and see if he can see any deeper than "British fair play to all, (religions) and special privileges to none." I would also like to ask him if he is satisfied in his own heart that he would be raising his family in the Protestant faith without "Tear" if William of Orange had not defeated James at the Boyne in Ireland?
